Gordon in the Desert.

Frederick Bohndorff, the last man left Khartoum before it was beleagu writes in the London Teleg "Leaving Berber at the end of Jan with my guide and my servant we into the desert. There is no track, you commit yourself to your guide, the afternoon of my fourth day's m I saw a great cloud of dust far awa the horizon, and presently a caval came riding toward me at an extra nary pace in contrast to my wea march. The leader was in advance, I noticed his eager manner and his pact figure clad in a blue military coat, red trousers and a fez. 'Bo dorff,' said General Gordon—for it he—'we all at Cairo thought you dead. I have often prayed to God protect you and Dr. Junker and serve you alive.' I dismounted and to the side of his camel, and he hands warmly. I was overwhelmed astonishment, for they knew nothing Khartoum or Berber of Gordon's ing, but immediately I saw him I div his mission. I only needed to see to know why he was there. 'Why you left Khartoum?' said Gordon, riedly. 'I am very glad to be there. Why is everybody leaving? you afraid?' 'Not exactly afraid; have finished my collection and I returning.' 'Well, how goes there?' 'Everything is in a ter muddle, no one knowing who is fait to the government and who is n 'But are the people of Khart afraid?' 'Excellency, there is pl to be afraid of.' 'Nothing.' repeated the question several times the kindest emphasis, and then pres ed me to Colonel Stewart and Ibra Pasha, who rode behind him wear gray tourists' suits. General Gor hereupon hastily bade me adieu, then the party, numbering about persons, started off again at the treme ous pace equaling that at which I them approach some fifteen or twe minutes before. Each member of party carried a small water sack, so provisions and a sleeping carpet.

DOMESTIC DISPATCHES.

Commissioner of Pensions Dudley Declares he has not Resigned.

ARCTIC CANNIBALISM EMPHATICALLY DENIED.

But Virginia and Louisiana Safe for Blaine—Valuable Monument Destroyed—Heavy Storms in Various Sections.

Dudley Has Not Resigned.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—For the second time within a month it was announced here to-day that Commissioner of Pensions Dudley had resigned. A local paper states that Dudley's resignation was in the president's hands and gossips had it that General Beaver of Pennsylvania, who was defeated in the race for governor of that state two years ago, would be appointed as his successor. A correspondent called on Dudley at his residence to-night and asked him what truth there was in the story of his resignation.

"Not one word of truth," he answered.

He said he had not resigned nor had he any intention of doing so. There was no foundation whatever for the statement. He said that some months ago he had thought of resigning his office in order to go to Indiana to manage the campaign in that state, as it was thought it would be necessary for him to take the chairmanship of the campaign committee, but that matter had been settled without his resignation.

General Beaver, who is spoken of in this stated report of Dudley's resignation as his probable successor, was in Washington about the beginning of July and had several interviews with the president and this, together with the visit of Dudley to Blaine, which Dudley informed your correspondent to-night was simply to make arrangements for conducting the campaign, and the fact that Calkins, republican candidate for governor of Indiana, was known to desire to have Dudley, as well as Dudley's own statement that if it were necessary for the success of the party that he should resign his office and go to Indiana to manage the campaign he would willingly do so, probably started the report and there seemed every reason to believe it to be correct until it was stated by Dudley to be without foundation. He of course knows whether he has resigned or intends to do so.

Positive there was No Cannibalism.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Star reports an interview with Commander Schley yesterday, in which he is reported as saying: "I am positively of the opinion that the flesh was removed from the dead bodies simply for catching shrimps. My strongest reason for believing there was no cannibalism is the condition in which I found the body of Private Snyder. It was untouched and was but a short time dead, and had been quite healthy. They were in a starving condition and had consumed the last of their food. If they had been accustomed to eat human flesh I think they would certainly have seized on Snyder in their condition."

The Journal of Commerce in a leader this morning says: The survivors of the Greely expedition are fairly entitled to the Scotch verdict of not proved in the case of the charge of cannibalism on the evidence so far submitted. Lieutenant Greely positively declares he has no knowledge of any such act. It may be presumed he will reaffirm this statement in an official report to the war department. The present state of the case entitles the survivors to the benefit of every doubt, and inasmuch as not all the bodies were mutilated, it cannot be certainly declared that the survivors were the flesh-eaters. There is no proof that the dead bodies were not mutilated for shrimp bait.

West Virginia Politics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Representative Goff of West Virginia passed through this city to-day on his way to Maine, where he is to take the stump. He seems very confident of success for the republicans in his state. He says that the fusion ticket of republicans and greenbackers will have a majority in the State. He has no doubt that they will carry the first and fourth districts, and thinks they will likely carry the third one. The result in the state he says depends upon the size of the majorities they get in the first two named districts. If they get good majorities in these they have the election sure. He says he is not a candidate for re-election himself, but that a good republican can carry his district. He laughed at the idea of negroes being shipped into the state, saying the thing was absurd. No party would begin this early even if they had intended doing such a thing. "No," he said, "the election will be strictly honest. Citizens of the state cannot be bribed. The great influence that will induce them to vote for Blaine is the promise of protection in building up their mining and manufacturing interests. More money is being used in that state," he said, "than is needed for legitimate purposes."

No Cleveland Men in Louisiana.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Sun is somewhat excited over a New Orleans dispatch which says an enthusiastic Cleveland man is hard to find in Louisiana, yet there is a feeling on the part of the state government that a show should be made of holding an election. Arrangements are perfected by which the state will be declared for Cleveland by 40,000 majority, even if not a ballot box is opened or a vote cast. The Sun thinks it is not impossible that this may be attempted, and calls upon the independent press to denounce such a scheme. The Sun says: "We submit in view of this astounding intelligence from Louisiana that these independent republican journals would do well to make haste and declare that they will have nothing to do with such proposed fraud in the election of the next president." The same dispatch from which the above is taken says if the republican national committee had wisdom and pluck enough to send men to guard the polls on election day Louisiana would give 30,000 majority for Blaine, and choose five out of six congressmen.

Decline in Stocks.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The Post's financial article says: A decline of 3½ per cent. in Union Pacific this morning is the result mainly of yesterday's trading on matched orders, and wash sales, by which the appearance of an advance was given to stock. Western Union and Union Pacific have been made the leaders of the market for the last three days, and the decline in them indicates a culmination, for the time being, of the bull movement in clique stocks. Aside from these, the general market was depressed by reports of rate cutting at the west and a probability that the determination of the Grand Trunk not to make any concessions to the trunk line pool, would lead to the disruption of the latter; but a decline would have come without this, as there has been but little genuine buying for investment, and the cliques have advanced the prices during the past ten days to a point where other speculators would not buy.

Republican Outlook Promising.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Press' Bar Harbor special, from one of its editors, says: During the past ten days I have seen prominent republican managers, or stump speakers, from New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Louisiana, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Massachusetts, and nearly every other state whose vote is at all a matter of doubt. Their reports are interesting in detail but more remarkable and important in that they are unanimously favorable to making an allowance for partisan enthusiasm. There must be some genuine basis for such unanimity in the tenor of advices from so many different channels. From everywhere intelligence comes that republican bolters are quietly stepping back to their old places in the ranks, and that democratic disaffection increases at a rate simply astonishing to those who have the republican canvass in hand.

Mormons Biding Their Time.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—It is understood that the Mormon church authorities in Utah have instructed the elders in Tennessee to make no attempt for some months to conduct services in Lewis and Hickman counties, in view of the strong sentiment against the Mormon faith in that section. For the present the work will not be actively prosecuted in any part of the state, it being thought better to wait until the excitement engendered by the recent murders subsides.

Government Maps of Railroads.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Mr. Calvert, draughtsman of the bureau of statistics, is now engaged in the preparation of a map showing the transportation lines of the states and territories of the Pacific coast, which will be embraced in the report of the chief of the bureau of statistics of the internal commerce of the United States for the year of 1884. This being special, maps of all transcontinental roads are represented in a very conspicuous manner.

Greenback Party in Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 24.—The state executive committee of the national greenback labor party met pursuant to the call of Dr. W. H. Pemberton, chairman. Dr. W. H. Hine, a member of the national committee suggested the necessity of immediate action by the executive committee to prepare for a Butler and West campaign in Louisiana. After a discussion the committee adjourned till Monday evening.

Returned to the Old Law.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 24.—Both houses of the general assembly yesterday passed a bill re-enacting the old election laws existing before the passage of the bill at the last session, which was declared unconstitutional by the court of appeals. This action was deemed necessary under a report of a joint special committee appointed to investigate whether under said decision, any election law existed in the state.

Going Over to Butler

BOSTON, August 24.—At a meeting of the democratic state committee yesterday the resignation of Colonel C. C. Woodworth, a near personal friend of General Butler and a member of the committee at large, was accepted and his place immediately filled by the election of R. E. Cook, mayor of Northampton. The resignation of Francoite E. Edson was also accepted.

Disappearance of a Bank President.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The World reported yesterday that W. J. Hutchison had disappeared and had fled to parts unknown. The report was not substantiated. F. D. Jennings, director of the Wall street bank, said he did not believe it; that Hutchison and his family had gone to the White mountains a few days ago.

Employes Discharged.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Domestic Sewing Machine Company employed nearly 1500 men at its factories at Newark, but yesterday it discharged 400 and reduced the wages of the rest. The cause is general depression of business.

New Postal Route.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—A postal route will be established from Ellaus to Prairie in Washington Territory service once a week, on September 1st to continue until June 30, 1885.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—It has been decided to exhume the body of Private Henry of the Greely party. The autopsy will be made to-morrow.

LAND STEALING.

How Big Cattle Companies Control and Own Government Land by Fraud and Drive Away Honest Settlers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Some time since the commissioner of the general land office ordered a survey of certain public lands in Colorado and Nebraska with a view of bringing suits at the next term of court against cattle companies that have illegally fenced large tracts of land in those states. A special agent who has been superintending the survey in Colorado in a report to the commissioner says that eight cases have been found against a prairie cattle company, composed of Scotchmen. An examination has been made of tracts containing respectively 100 square miles, 25 square miles, 16 square miles and 75 square miles, and the agent is at present examining a tract containing over 100 square miles. All of these are under control of the Prairie Cattle company, and the agent says are illegally fenced in. Officials in the land office say the practice of illegally fencing in large tracts of land and making fraudulent entries has been greater the past year than ever before. They claim that between five and six millions of acres are now illegally fenced in, and that several million of acres are fraudulently entered.

COMPLAINTS FROM SETTLERS

Are being received daily by the agents and at the land office here. The settlers say that cattle men are driving them away and taking from them the lands which they have settled upon. One of the land office officials said that if the practice is continued cattle men will have the entire control of the best public lands in the United States within twenty years. Relative to the fraudulent entries of land, a land agent in New Mexico informs the general land commissioner that of entries in the territory 90 per cent. are fraudulent, and another agent in Dakota writing upon the same subject says that 75 per cent. of the entries are fraudulent in that territory. A table was completed yesterday for the forthcoming annual report of the land commissioner, that shows the number of fraudulent entries that have been investigated during the past year, and approximately the number of illegally fenced acres in various states and territories to be as follows: Arkansas 70 fraudulent entries, Dakota 401, Colorado 880 and 2,800,000 acres illegally fenced, California 159, New Mexico 127 and 1,500,000 acres illegally fenced, Minnesota 211, Washington territory 109, Idaho 92, Nebraska 170 and 300,000 acres illegally fenced; Montana, 240; Wyoming, 24, and 250,000 acres; Oregon, 84; Kansas, 82, and 600,000 acres; Nevada, 60,000 acres. Besides cases embraced in the foregoing list, there are about 3,000 entries on which action has been suspended until an examination can be made by special agents. These entries will average 150 acres of land each. Acting Commissioner Harrison says that there are thousands of these fraudulent entries, but that the office can only investigate those which are brought to its attention by settlers and others. In Wyoming more than 100 large cattle companies are reported as having

FENCED IN PUBLIC LANDS.

Some of these companies are reported to have been English and some Scotch. Referring to the practice of large companies making fraudulent entries on lands illegally fenced, Major McKenzie of the land office says: "These entries are made along a stream that runs through the land. The cattle men will employ men to herd their stock, and then will give $5 or $10 to each one to make an entry for 160 acres. When he has secured his patent it is understood that he must transfer it to the party who advanced the money. Many of the cattle dealers will not employ men unless they will agree to make entries. The fraud in New Mexico, Arizona, California, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, Utah and Nevada is practiced by means of the desert land act. That act provides that in selecting 640 acres of desert land 25 cents per acre shall be paid down, and that persons entering land shall be allowed three years in which to pay the remainder. Instead of taking desert land, the practice is to take the very best land. The parties hold it and get the use of it for three years for comparatively nothing, and for as much longer as the title is in dispute. Complaints from settlers come from nearly all the western states and territories, and some of the complaints accuse the government and its agents of collusion with the land grabbers.

CRIMINAL NOTES.

LECHEROUS NEGROES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Times' Athens, Ga., special says: Riders have just arrived from Danielsville. They report intense excitement in Madison county and probable lynching since their departure. A great number of assaults which had been perpetrated on white women within the past few weeks have aroused the people of the thinly populated counties, where the greatest danger lies, against lecherous negroes. Wednesday the house of A. D. Barnet was entered after a sociable had been held and two young ladies sleeping in one bed were awakened by negroes trying to turn down the clothes. Their shrieks aroused the family and the negroes leaped from the window. A blood hound was put on their trail, and the party followed to the house of Nick Wooten, three miles distant, where he stopped at the door. The men took positions on each side of the house and awaited the coming of daylight with drawn revolvers. When Nick appeared he fell on his knees, admitted that he was the man who entered the young ladies' chamber and was taken before a magistrate in Westerville court house. This was soon surrounded by an angry mob. The prisoner was hurried out by a side door and sent to Danielsville. When the crowd found they were foiled they started in hot pursuit. At the time the riders left Danielsville the crowd was about five miles distant. There was every prospect that the prisoner would be lynched before they could return with help.

DASTARDLY VANDALISM.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The World's Hartford special says: The most dastardly act of vandalism ever perpetrated in this state occurred last night at Cedar Hill cemetery, involving the almost total destruction of the splendid Morgan mausoleum, from the center of which rose a column reared as a memorial to the late Governor E. D. Morgan of New York. A temporary wooden structure had been erected around the shaft to afford protection to the carvers in their work, which was fired by the torch of an incendiary. The heat caused the marble work to crumble and drop to the ground in ruins. The loss will aggregate about $25,000, the total cost of the tomb and shaft being about $45,000. The entire loss falls upon the contractor.

KILLED HIS SON.

GEORGETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 24.—This morning Fennimore Clayton, of Middletown, shot and killed his only son, aged 2 years. Clayton had delirium tremens for several days previous to the murder. He took the boy out into the yard and shot him through the head, saying: "He is now in heaven, and better off." He then went into the house and tried to kill his wife and mother, but they secured the weapon—but not until they had given him several severe blows on the head with a base ball bat. Clayton has been arrested. He is a farmer of about 30 years, and of a respectable family.

RAN AWAY TO SAVE OTHERS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Morton, wife of Col. Charles B. Morton, the runaway assistant postmaster of Brooklyn, has a letter from her husband dated Rotterdam. There was nothing in the letter, she said, that intimated any intention on his part of returning.

"Did he state his reason for going away so suddenly?" she was asked.

"Only," was the response, "that he left the city to save others. I cannot tell who it was he went away to save."

STORMS.

CLOUDBURST IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Sun's Corning, N. Y., special thus particularizes the severe storm. It was like a cloudburst of rain mingled with hail for fifteen minutes. The tornado swept up the valley. Then another storm cloud from the west met it and changed its course, and for fifteen minutes more it swept down the valley. The path of the storm was one mile wide. The hailstones were the size of marbles in some places and three inches deep, giving the country the appearance of winter. Large trees were blown down, windows shattered, greenhouses and flower beds demolished, and grape vines, fruit trees, corn, cabbage and other crops completely destroyed. Many acres of tobacco, for which this part of the state is noted, were ruined. The total loss by the storm in Corning is estimated at $25,000.

CYCLONE IN TEXAS.

GALVESTON, Aug. 24.—The News' Dallas special says: A small cyclone struck the end of Lamar street this afternoon, tearing a deep hole, and rose again with great velocity, carrying a column of sand two feet in diameter to a height of over five hundred feet. A valuable dog was carried up eighty feet and fell to the ground lifeless. The cyclone moved northwesterly, where it is believed some damage resulted. The storm continued only a few minutes. It came without warning. The sky was clear, the weather warm, when suddenly a funnel-shaped cloud of inky blackness swiftly descended, striking the earth like a cannon ball, and rising instantly. It is reported that two men chopping wood in Trinity Bottoms, three miles from the city, were injured by the cyclone.

ROUGH DAY ON A LAKE.

LACONIA, N. H., Aug. 24.—This has been a rough day on Lake Winnipiseogee. It was reported that the steamer James Bell, from the Alton bay camp meeting had been ashore. She had about 1000 passengers. Particulars are not obtainable at present, but it is not believed any persons were lost or injured.

FIRES.

BLOODED STOCK PERISH IN THE FLAMES.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 24.—The Commercial-Gazette's Cynthiana special says that at 1 o'clock this morning the Abdallah stable burned, and a score of fine-race horses perished. Among them were Long Branch, Oberlin, Wilkes and Jersey Lily. Different owners had horses quartered in the stables. W. H. Wilson places his loss at $50,000. The total loss is estimated at $100,000, mostly in horses.

VALUABLE SAW MILL AND LUMBER YARD.

DULUTH, Aug. 23.—Little & Simmons' saw mill and lumber yards burned to-night. The fire at midnight was still raging. The loss is already $125,000; insurance, $95,000.

OBSERVATORY BURNED.

ENGLAND'S ESTIMATE OF THE CHINESE WAR.

Germany Openly Insulting the British Lion—The Ravages of Cholera—Gladstone Ready to Retire—Parliamentary Matters.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—London cable letters have the following:

THE FRANCO-CHINESE SITUATION.

The real situation is far more wholly and correctly estimated in England than in France. The belief is general here that nothing will induce China to yield but an attack on Pekin. German attacks on England have continued during the week with unabated fury, the English journals replying coolly and civilly, though sometimes rather too openly showing their real feeling to be amused surprise at the inexplicable virulence of the leading German prints. The startling story of Wednesday of German corvettes hauling down the British flag on the African coast seems unfounded. The German accusation that the English are seeking to nullify concessions respecting Angra Pequena by annexing all the adjacent territory is equally unfounded. Bismarck's known dislike of state colonies, or any form of colonial aggression, makes it pretty certain he is using all this west African business as a pretext while his ultimate aim is wholly different.

ENGLAND ABUSED AND INSULTED.

England is in the very peculiar position of being abused with equal violence by Germany and France. The Germans have determined beyond all question to break down the monopoly of England in colonization in Africa, and perhaps other parts of the world also. The extraordinary strength of Germany's position is shown in the fact that while the Berlin press teems with insult, journalism in London is tame almost to shocking shame in its replies, and while all Germany expresses its delight with the proceedings, with Dr. Nachtigall, the English papers express the mild hope that the insult to the English flag was not an insult after all, or at least such an insult as one power can explain away and another accept a simple apology for. A few liberal papers alone express irritation, but the ground of their complaint is not an outrage to their country, but the suspicion that Bismarck wants to drive Gladstone out of office is an incident which though small is a significant symptom of the temper of the German people. It is reported by a correspondent of the Times, who was shown in a flag-maker's shop in Berlin an imperial German standard, that this was about to be dispatched to Angra Pequena.

EGYPTIAN AFFAIRS.

While England is thus assailed with impunity her own relations to Egypt are not going on particularly well; preparations for the relief of Gordon are meeting with such severe criticism and sarcasm has been brought to bear in order to induce a change of route from the Nile to Suakim. These various complications lend an additional importance to the proposal for a compromise between the two houses of parliament with which Cowper, an amiable whig peer, has startled the political world. I have from the best authority that on this proposal there is a division of opinion in the cabinet—that the whig lords are urging Gladstone to propose as a compromise the introduction of a redistribution bill in the autumn session, and that the old man has been listening favorably to these suggestions.

GLADSTONE'S RETIREMENT.

His absorbing purpose at the present moment is to make a decent exit from political life and secure the necessity that compels him, with his overwearied brain and failing health, to be a protagonist in popular agitation. He regards the passage of the franchise as an act or deed [illegible] the decent prelude to an effective exit from the stage. The radicals on the other hand, are fierce at the prospect of being arrested in their pursuit of the house of lords and [illegible] the redistribution bill being proposed in accordance with the wishes of Salisbury. The general supposition at the present moment is that the compromise will not be carried through.

WILL THE POWERS INTERFERE?

The French have even now begun a serious war in China, and in professing the intention of beginning a serious war they are only at the purpose of [illegible] places to indemnify themselves for their losses. They will afterwards resume negotiations. The Chinese appear to rely on the intervention of the civilized nations of Europe to protect treaty ports. Experts here declare that the Chinese army is in a wretched condition, and that the only limit to French success would be the opinion of Europe. As far as can be learned, this is decidedly against France, and the most probable outcome of the affair will be the interference of the powers to stop hostilities and compel a settlement. English opinion is exceedingly hostile to the Chinese policy of France. A newspaper published at Cairo, which was recently suppressed by the Khedive was managed by Takala, the French subject who assisted in [illegible] attacks on the English. The French government protested against this treatment of its subject, and this has angered the English exceedingly.

BITTERNESS OF FEELING IN FRANCE.

In France in the meanwhile suspicion is universal that the English have urged on the Chinese to war, and the comments of the English press, which are all favorable to China now, as they were to the southern states during your troubles, lend some countenance to the suspicion. The bitterness of feeling may be gathered from the comments of Paris newspapers, which describe England as the cause of all the trouble. "England," continues this remarkable article, "has hypocritically encouraged these barbarians. Her policy is merely brutal egotism, her courage is a matter of guineas, oddly perfidious and ridiculously impotent. England is now in the Chinese what she was in the Egyptian affair, deceitful, false and treacherous."

MINISTER FERRY'S PLAN.

Ferry's position is difficult but strong. The radicals and a few of the Bonapartist's prints rail at him, but even the correspondent of the Times is forced to declare that he has an overwhelming majority of the nation behind him. The plan which he proposed, according to the latest information here, is to avoid difficulties of an international character, on which China counts, by confining his operations to the bombardment of Foo Chow, and to attacks on the Chinese fleet. The meaning of the distinctions which semi-official journals insist on making between the acts of France as reprisals and not war, is to show the other powers that no steps are intended which will involve any interference with neutral vessels.

DOMESTIC AGITATION.

In the presence of such exciting events abroad is proceeding rapidly. Meetings are held daily for or against lords and franchise, but they are addressed by no important speaker. The only noticeable feature is Earl Cowper's letter in the Times proposing as a compromise that both houses should pass the franchise bill on the condition that the redistribution bill should be introduced at the beginning of the autumn session. This created alarm among the liberals, because it was reported that several ministers approved of it. Protests are now appearing. Nothing indicates that Salisbury will agree to it.

The visit of the prince and princess of Wales to Newcastle attracted more attention than mere ceremonials usually do. They opened on Wednesday a new port, Sir William Armstrong's magnificent gift to the city, and a new dock on Thursday, both amid tumultuous manifestations of enthusiastic loyalty from the population. Conspicuously hostile to the house of lords are the Newcastle members Cowen and Morley. Both are extreme radicals, yet they took part in the proceedings, Cowen making a speech of singular felicity and eloquence. The prince and princess went Friday to Edinburgh as guests of the Earl and Countess of Rosebery.

POLITICAL DEMONSTRATIONS.

In the meantime political demonstrations on both sides are assuming more grotesque features every day. The radicals are making very merry over the plan of Earl Carnarvon and other amiable conservative peers of uniting wire pullers, their friends and legendary workingmen and plying them with plenty of excellent eating and drinking before asking them to listen to the wishy washy oratory of conservative speakers. Truth suggests that the best way of having a pleasant and inexpensive vacation is to become the secretary of a conservative association, especially of workingmen, and liberal papers publish accounts of vehement radical artisans who have consented to swallow their principles in order to swallow the splendid things going at a conservative demonstration. Radical demonstrations are naturally done on a scale at once more earnest and more economical. At a recent procession in Aberdeen, admiration displayed itself in the form of a large shorthorn bull drawn by four horses and labeled Gladstone, and Hatred in the form of a lean ox ridden by a ragged urchin and labeled Salisbury.

OTHER CARICATURES.

In another part of the demonstration Salisbury was represented by a dead horse followed by a number of worn out horses, representing other members of the aristocracy. Col. Barnaby, who has a very vituperative tongue, retorted by declaring that "shorthorns, admirable as they are for culinary purposes, are singularly devoid of courage. They will attack," he said, continuing the metaphor, "a lady's Egyptian greyhound and run away at the sight of a fox in terror. To the cowardice of sheep they unite the obstinacy of the pig."

Finally the radicals will wind up the agitation by a demonstration on the evening of the 20th of October, the day of the opening of parliament. They will have a torchlight procession and a number of bonfires on the Thames embankment, around which the "Marseillaise" will be sung, concluding with the letting off of ten thousand rockets. The St. James Gazette, with its characteristic violence, adds the suggestion that police bands should accompany the "Marseillaise," and that of constables and burglars might fittingly conclude the entertainment.

SPREAD OF CHOLERA.

The spread of cholera in Italy seems eccentric. Villages in the Alps being comparatively clean, the presence of cholera here is regarded as an evidence of the transmission of the disease through refugees from infected towns who are not themselves [illegible] tions to every rule continue to occur. Local deaths from cholera in France were 4000 up to the 19th of August. There was no case of death noted quicker than four hours after the first attack, but within the last week there have been numerous deaths occurring within three hours and one reported of a priest who died on the altar on Sunday after only two hours of illness. It is interesting to note, as priests fast until after mass, the danger that arises from an empty stomach. [illegible] In Italy there have been [illegible] deaths, and the plague has increased [illegible]. A month ago it was predicted that Naples would suffer frightfully if cholera struck it, and, with the cases now all around Naples, that city can scarcely escape. At Marseilles six of the garrison guards are already dead. From what I learn cholera in Lyons will be the next sad feature of this terrible epidemic.

DOCTORS DISAGREEING.

Science reports a decisive benefit from the investigations of the doctors. It is a drawn battle between the followers of Koch and the Pasteurites. Koch declares that a microbe (in the shape of a mark of interrogation) is the primordial cause of cholera and that it is conveyed into the stomach by the agency of food and drink. If the microbe adheres to the person swallowing, it may die, it being by its development that it produces cholera. The Pasteurites admit the existence of microbes, but insist that there are no evidences that they are the cause of the disease and say that cholera in fact may produce microbes. Microbes resembling those described by Koch are found in persons afflicted with other diseases. If Koch's experiments in inoculating with microbes had produced cholera his theory would be perfect. However, it must be borne in mind that certain animals present refractory action and resist disease. In order honestly to test Koch's theory it would be necessary to inoculate a man, and of course an experiment of this kind is out of the question. With this objection Koch's theories are generally approved.

JOURNALISTIC JOTTINGS.

The inroads upon the English book-selling market, which have been made by American magazines like Harper's and the Century, which sell largely at a shilling while most of the English magazines can barely circulate at sixpence, has suggested an idea of reprisals by the publication in New York of an edition of the Illustrated London News. The talk also includes an edition of the Illustrated London Daily Journal. Statistics, however, still continue to be published of the enormous income made by English journals.

Labouchere, who has been buying a share in the Daily News, the leading liberal organ, is besides making the very nice income of £10,000 out of Truth.

The most marvelous success of recent enterprises is a thing called "Tit Bits," which circulates nearly a million though it is nothing but a collection of extracts, mostly from American papers.

The latest journalistic enterprise is an organization under the title of the cook and house maid's religious journal, called the Christian Million. It attracts readers by sending around a carriage and a pair which is to be given as a prize. A sad commentary is in the meantime supplied on a newspaper celebrity by the statement in a society journal that all attempts on Mills of California by fortune hunting Englishmen are vain, as his daughter is married to a gentleman whose name is Weeks, and a gentleman whose name is Sargent is described as the proprietor of the New York Tribune.

CREATION OF A WRITER.

The New York World has driven some of the American papers in Europe mad by an article on the American girl, uncivilized and civilized. The former type is described as always talking, always in haste, and having a hearty appetite, and this is illustrated by a description of an American breakfast, and finally this creation of the writer in the World usually has lots of candy in her pockets, which she eats at all hours. She loves to sit in a rocking chair in the heat of a fire or the sun munching candy and reading novels. Her feet are said to be usually without instep. They are small, narrow and flat, and own an easy... to well-fitting shoes.

The civilized girl, who has seen Europe, holds her back extraordinarily stiff, carries her head very high, and extinguishes the street like an important little water wagtail. She draws and despises her own country, and her sole ambition is to get into society.

THE MATRIMONIAL MARKET.

[illegible] reports of a revival of activity in the matrimonial market. [illegible] the visit of the [illegible] to [illegible] the second son, and Princess Louise, the eldest daughter of the prince of Wales, who has only just got out of the nursery, is fixed on as the object of his pursuit, while another suitor for the young lady is mentioned in the person of the crown prince of [illegible], who in his youthful career has managed to be engaged and twice rejected, and who has once been talked of in association with Princess Beatrice.

ARTISTS AND SINGERS.

News in the city papers comes from the moors, foreign watering places and country houses, in which large parties are being entertained. There is a big crowd of artists at Carlsbad. Nilsson is taking mud baths there with great regularity, and all are in splendid health. Mme. Patti, French [illegible], the celebrated French soprano, has reduced herself by twelve pounds in fifty days, and Mme. Valerie is described as having lost everything but her voice.

Instead for the first time for years has a large number of tourists.

AERIAL NAVIGATION.

Experiments on a manageable balloon have attracted extraordinary amount of attention in England, [illegible] journal goes so far as to declare the recent ascent is the most important event of the week. [illegible] talking of trains and [illegible] philosophers discussing whether [illegible] will weaken or strengthen [illegible] present struggle with poverty and [illegible]. Meanwhile terrestrial travel is [illegible] disturbing the sleep of railway directors, seven of whom have just joined together their shares in the complaint that first class carriages are [illegible] and that [illegible] of the highest position are not ashamed to travel in third class carriages with sweeps and in company with navvies.

MORALITY OF CANNIBALS.

The charges against Lieutenant Greely in the newspapers have started a lively controversy here as to the morality of cannibalism. "Was it eating of Lieutenant Greely's sailors," asks a correspondent of the [illegible] and conservative Standard, "not their murder? Apart from murder what was the harm of it?" The highly [illegible] Pall Mall is naturally still more outspoken. "Were I starving," he writes, "with one piece of a friend's game I should regard myself as very foolish were I to allow myself to die of hunger."

The St. James' [illegible] over and over again the hopeless [illegible] of Carlisle and [illegible] the house of lords as an American importation worked by American money, and winds up a savage article by advising Carlisle to [illegible] his energies to the [illegible] contest in which the Americans have to choose between the incompetence of Cleveland and venality of Blaine.

The Australians are finding the same difficulty as Californians from Chinese immigration, and the Victorian parliament in consequence of the spread of opium smoking among the white population, are considering means for checking the sale of the narcotic drug.

The next form of investigation is a circular issued by the medical authorities for information respecting the habits of [illegible].

The colonel of volunteers has called upon his men to shave off their mustaches and beards.

Fans which used to sell for one or two shillings each, in consequence of the change of fashion, can now be had at six shillings for twelve dozen.

[illegible], American ambassador, is writing a book on European society, and George MacDonald, the novelist, has furnished a preface to a work of a political [illegible] under the peculiar title of "Letters from Hell."

Mrs. Langtry is having a highly successful tour. Her Chinese boy never leaves her a dull hour.

It is rumored that Queen Victoria is again worried by the behavior of her son-in-law, the Grand Duke Louis of Hesse Darmstadt. According to the latest reports he is seeking still another matrimonial alliance. His latest fancy is toward a lady who is connected with the ducal court of Darmstadt, who is much his inferior in rank. She is also very much younger than the grand duke and said to be very beautiful.

Edward Terry, the well known comedian, was seriously injured while performing at Yarmouth by the premature explosion of a pistol. It was found necessary to stop the performance, and the audience, after listening to the explanation, quietly dispersed.

Cumberland, the thought reader, has managed to make £2,250 in a week in Austria.

SPORTING NOTES.

HORSE VS. BICYCLE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—The horse vs. bicycle contest was concluded to-night in the presence of a great crowd, Anderson, the horseman, winning, the contest having covered 874 miles in six days of twelve hours each. Prince, on his bicycle, made 455 miles, and Armaindo, the pedestrian, covering 135, their aggregate score being three miles less than that of the rider.

SWIMMING MATCH.

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, Aug. 24.—A mile swimming match between Professor Thomas Riley, champion of America, and Captain Henry Simpson, the champion of England, resulted in favor of Riley, who made the distance in 23:10. Simpson's time was 23:16.

ACCIDENTS.

THE TALLAPOOSA DISASTER.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., Aug. 24.—Nothing new was developed to-day in reference to the Tallapoosa disaster. The Alliance went to the wreck this morning and anchored, being followed by the government tug Triana. Boats from both vessels were sent to inspect the position of the wrecked steamer and a search was made for wreckage, but none was found. Lieutenant Commander Merry and Paymaster Tiffany are here to-night having come over from Woods Holl this afternoon. Commodore Merry states that nothing has been decided in reference to a disposition of the wreck. A very heavy fog enveloped Vineyard sound to-night, and seafaring men are fearful least passing vessels, especially steamers, may come in collision with the wreck, which lies in the direct path of passing vessels.

Large Crop of Peanuts.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Commercial Bulletin says well informed dealers [illegible] the crop this year will be the largest ever raised, it being generally estimated at about 3,000,000 bushels. One or two of the trade think if the weather should continue favorable it will reach 4,000,000.

In Honor of Dr. Pavy.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—Memorial services in honor of Dr. Octave Pavy of the Greely Arctic expedition, were held at Christ Episcopal church this afternoon. The services were very simple, but impressive, and were witnessed by a large audience. The civic memorial services have been postponed until October 1st.

WAR AND PESTILENCE.

The French Actively begin the Bombardment of Foo Chow.

NOT A FIGHT BUT A TERRIBLE MASSACRE.

The Entire Chinese Fleet Destroyed—The Cholera Epidemic Spreading in Italy—Deaths Reported in Infected Districts.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—Foo Chow arsenal was destroyed yesterday after three hours' bombardment by Courbet's squadron. Seven Chinese gunboats were sunk and two escaped. The European settlement was undisturbed.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—The bombardment of Foo Chow began at 2 o'clock this afternoon and ceased at 5 P. M. Only one Chinese battery replied. The report that two French vessels were sunk during the engagement is not confirmed.

PARTICULARS OF THE BOMBARDMENT.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The Times' Foo Chow dispatch dated Sunday, 3 P. M., says the French shelled the barracks and camps near Quanbao. No resistance was made to the attack. The consulate buildings were looted by Chinese soldiers, who were in uniform and armed. The French chief of staff reports the loss of the French at six men. The Times' correspondent believes this estimate untrue. An English pilot was killed during the scare Saturday night when the French opened their heavy fire, and it is believed sank one of their own torpedo boats. The bombardment is described as of the most sickening character. The Chinese fleet lately on the Min river, with the exception of two ships, is blotted out. No surrender was allowed to the disabled and sinking ships. Their guns silenced, they were shelled for hours.

Admiral Courbet opened fire at 2 P. M., and the Chinese replied almost simultaneously. The dockyard and arsenal were fired immediately, but with only partial success. Eleven vessels formed the Chinese fleet. The French kept up a fire on the arsenal and the neighboring buildings, forts, barracks and villages until 5 in the afternoon, though the resistance from the Chinese was weak. Their vessels were mostly light wooden river and coast transports, and were really toys. The French had eight heavy armed ships, namely, the Volta, Inguay, Treviso, Delafising, Aspic, Vipere, Lonx and Villars. Several Chinese gunboats maintained bravely a desultory fire for about a quarter of an hour, when the survivors of their crews leaped overboard. The combat was practically finished in seven minutes. The superior French artillery made the contest most unequal.

After disabling the Chinese vessels it was no fight, it was a massacre. This is the opinion of every spectator. Two eighteen-ton gunboats of the Chinese fleet fought well, one sinking near the English man-of-war Champion, while the one stationed above the junks made a good stand. The batteries ceased about 5 P. M. Some French and Chinese ships were engaged in close proximity to the English men-of-war Vigilant and Champion. At 6 o'clock Sunday evening three burning gunboats floated down stream, one carrying French colors. Numerous fire junks, blazing in a dangerous manner imperiled the English men-of-war, but were fended off. One English bark was saved by an English man-of-war. Torpedo boats were exploded under the stern of the Yank Woo [illegible] the two sinking gunboats. The scenes on the river as the dead and wounded floated by were terrible. The English saved many wounded. The forts lower down have not yet been attacked. The Times correspondent is the only newspaper representative present. He was on board the Champion.

[illegible] LEAVES PARIS.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—It is reported that Li Fong Pao has received a dispatch of 200 words from his government, the purport of which he has apprised Prime Minister Ferry [illegible] he had given up his departure from Paris. Le Paris believes the object of the dispatch was to sound Li Fong concerning the chance of submitting the quarrel to arbitration.

[illegible] left Paris at [illegible] o'clock last evening.

FOOCHOW, Aug. 24.—The French fleet sustained no damage.

BISMARCK TAKES A HAND.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—It is hoped the Chinese trouble may be arranged yet under the auspices of Bismarck. It is regarded as a not unworthy [illegible] that Baron De Courcel, the French ambassador to Germany, was summoned to Paris Friday and returned to Berlin on the same train with Li Fong Pao, the Chinese minister. Baron De Courcel was overheard to remark to a member of the Chinese legation at the depot, "let us hope this journey may be favorable to each of us."

SHELLING THE VILLAGES.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—Of the Chinese men of war which escaped the French bombardment at Foo Chow, one was stranded and has been [illegible]. The other met with no mishap. The French recommenced firing to-day directing their shots against the pagodas. It is rumored the object of the recovered attack [illegible] place. The French transports are shelling the villages on the heights around the arsenal.

EFFECT OF THE WAR IN INDIA.

CALCUTTA, Aug. 24.—The Chino-Franco war up to present time has [illegible] effect on the tea trade and the general markets. It is believed the effect on the markets will be slight unless the war shall become prolonged.

WILL BENEFIT THE UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Sun's Washington special says: The effect of war between China and France will, it is believed here, operate greatly to the advantage of the United States through an almost immediate increase of trade between this country and China. The demand for all kinds of manufactured goods heretofore supplied to China through French agencies will naturally be largely transferred to this country. The Chinese government, which possesses a large and powerful navy, will undoubtedly prohibit the importation of all French goods. Its ports will be closed against French commerce. Not only will the Chinese need munitions of war but also commissary and quartermaster supplies which can be transported from New York to San Francisco and thence to China by steamship lines, the traffic over which has perceptibly increased since the beginning of the Franco-Chinese trouble. China will continue to purchase of England as long as the latter is unmolested, but the natural highway of her trade is by way of San Francisco.

POSITION OF THE UNITED STATES.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The state department officials here refuse to say whether or not there has been any diplomatic correspondence between this and any other government relative to the Franco-Chinese difficulty. While they do not deny that the intervention of the United States to prevent hostilities between France and China has been asked, they say that if there had been any correspondence of that nature they would not be at liberty to make it public. Secretary Frelinghuysen is not in the city at present. Assistant Secretary of State Davis said to your correspondent that there had been no official information received at the state department of the beginning of hostilities between France and China. He said the only information he had was what he got from the newspapers. He said he was not at liberty to say whether or not the United States had been asked to act as arbitrator between France and China. He said there could be no intervention on the part of this government unless both the nations engaged in the dispute were willing.

THE CHOLERA.

DEATHS REPORTED.

TOULON, Aug. 24.—There were three deaths from cholera in town yesterday and one death in the suburbs. Seven patients were admitted to the hospital and six discharged. Forty-eight are now under treatment. In Toulon during the last few days death has followed attacks with great rapidity. This new feature of the epidemic causes alarm, as it indicates greater violence. Eight deaths from cholera are reported in the department of the Pyrenees Orientales to-day, and two deaths from the disease at Louvres.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 24.—There were ten deaths from cholera in this city yesterday.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 24.—There were eight deaths from cholera in this city last night.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 25.—There were fourteen deaths from cholera during the twenty-four hours ending at 9 o'clock this morning.

TOULON, Aug. 24.—There were five deaths from cholera last night. The increase is attributed to the hasty return of the inhabitants, especially as the infection was still prevailing.

ROME, Aug. 24.—The cholera is increasing in Italy. In the province of Cuneo there have been fifty-eight deaths during three days, and at La Spezia and adjoining villages seventy fresh cases and forty-eight deaths during the past two days.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—The following deaths have occurred during the 24 hours ending to-night, in the southern department of France: Pyrenees Orientales 14, Herault 8, Gard 10, Andes 30. To-day's bulletin from the provinces of Italy show 9 deaths and 32 new cases of cholera to-day at Naples.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Two deaths from cholera in the island of Corsica.

ANOTHER OUTBREAK.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The United States charge d'affaires at Rome has notified the state department of the outbreak of cholera at Spezia. The consulate general at Geneva telegraphs that cholera attacked Spezia on the 22d. There were 61 cases last night—39 fatal.

NO CHOLERA ON THE STEAMER.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—It has been ascertained that there is no cholera on board the steamer Barrasmore.

AUSTRIA.

DISASTROUS FIRE RAGING.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—A fire has been raging for three days in Rowa, a town in Austrian Galicia. Three hundred houses have been destroyed and 3000 persons are homeless. The fire also destroyed the dwellings and 337 farms in and about the large market town of [illegible]. The harvest has just been [illegible] consumed. There is a great dearth of provisions in the town.

ANARCHIST ROBBERS.

VIENNA, Aug. 24.—A large robbery of a jeweler's shop has occurred here. The belief is widespread that the robbers were anarchists. A number of arrests yesterday and to-day have caused fresh alarm.

WESTERN AFRICA.

[illegible]

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Advices from Western Africa say that small-pox is raging at [illegible], Ashantee. The king of the country recently died and 100 subjects were killed at the funeral. A new king being appointed, the Ashantee chiefs sued that the country be annexed to the English possessions because of his notorious cruelty.

THE WRECKED STEAMER.

ADEN, Aug. 24.—The wrecked steamer Avoyron left Saigon July 24 with men returning to France. The British man-of-war Briton has been despatched to Cape Guardafui to render assistance.

RUSSIA.

FRIENDLY TO ENGLAND.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 24.—The Novosti, reviewing the strained relations of England and Germany, cordially acknowledges England's recognition of the right of Russia to reap the fruit of her sacrifices in Central Asia. "England," the paper says, "is enjoying a similar right in Egypt. Nothing has been done by Russia to humiliate England for the benefit of Germany. The humiliation of England would disturb the balance of powers in Europe."

JEWS ASSAULTED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 24.—Bitterness against the Jews in the Russian provinces is increasing. An outbreak at Mubai, Transcaucasia, was owing to a report that the Jews had stolen a Christian child. The mob assaulted the Jewish quarter and made threats of a general massacre of the Jews. The riots had only just begun when the child was found. Further outrages are feared in southern Russia.

MEN DYING OF RINDERPEST.

ODESSA, Aug. 24.—Thirteen peasants in the village of Andrejewka, near this city, have been attacked with symptoms similar to those of the rinderpest. Two patients have died. Troops have formed a cordon around the village.

GERMANY.

Y. M. C. A. OF THE WORLD.

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—The fourth day of the world's convention of the Young Men's Christian association was devoted to various religious exercises and a conference of religious work. A farewell meeting was held in the evening and the convention was closed. Addresses were delivered by Count Bernstoff and Baron Rothkirch of Berlin, and Mr. George Williams of London. The Reverend Dalton of St. Petersburg, Dr. Guest of New York, Dr. Welch of Auburn, Capt. Lecarovan of Sweden, Baron Schlesmbach and others. The result of this meeting will be to greatly strengthen the association in European countries. The delegates will leave for their homes to-morrow. Most of the American delegates will sail on the 27th and 30th from Hamburg for New York.

THE EMPEROR AND THE CZAR.

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—The czar and the emperor will meet early in September, probably at Stettin. An envoy from the Russian court has arrived at Babelsburg to make all arrangements for the meeting.

WAR CORVETTE EQUIPPED.

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—The war corvette Bismarck has been ordered to be equipped preparatory to proceeding to the west coast of Africa in October.

FRANCE.

BURGLARS CONVICTED.

NAVIZLE, Aug. 24.—The trial of a band of burglars in progress here resulted in the conviction of four of the prisoners, upon whom sentence was pronounced to-day. Cornet was condemned to death, and Marguette to life long servitude. The other two, Delhardy and Brenger, were sentenced respectively to eight and ten years' imprisonment. Frangue, a fifth prisoner, was acquitted.

PATTI'S DIVORCE.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—In consequence of the French courts having postponed the granting to Patti of a divorce she now refuses to sing in Paris, although it had been arranged that she should do so.

CANADA.

LOSSES OF CATTLE DEALERS.

MONTREAL, Aug. 24.—It is stated that cattle shippers here have lost heavily, some from it is said dropping a quarter of a million and another $100,000 during the past three years.

TURKEY.

DISCUSSING EGYPT.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 24.—Recent cabinet councils have discussed the question of sending a circular to the powers concerning Egypt.

TAKE NOTICE.

The Cleveland Confessions and Explanations All In.

Buffalo Telegraph, Aug. 15.

We suppose the set apologies for Cleveland are all in. We have given them more or less notice as they have been entered, and shall not analyze them as a whole at this time. But the Telegraph's position may be understood, we here enter a formal declaration on the whole batch.

The New York Post says the governor maintained "irregular connections" with a widow and that a boy was born whose paternity, it claims, was doubtful, owing to promiscuous intercourse of Grover Cleveland and some of his boon companions with the boy's mother.

[illegible] of the [illegible] the same statement, going into [illegible] more, and charging the [illegible] upon a dead friend of the presidential candidate, [illegible] that Governor Cleveland [illegible] his version of the story [illegible].

[illegible], the Buffalo organ of the democracy, passes over the Halpin affair as lightly as possible, shrinking from it like a boy from a [illegible], but admits the [illegible] connection.

A [illegible] of the governor's staff, a law partner of one of his boon companions, and fourteen other men, personal and political friends of Cleveland, calling themselves "Independents," bring up the rear with a formal apology for the governor's misconduct. They tip-toe over the Halpin case as if they were treading on eggs, and raise a cloud of dust under cover of which they hope their friend may escape from his trouble.

All these apologists admit the central fact in the case, and two of the apologies make it quite revolting to men of decent habits.

The Telegraph has to say: All the evidence we have seen or heard goes to show that Maria Halpin's honor was unstained when she met Grover Cleveland. A boy was born to her September 14, 1874. Cleveland acknowledged that he was the father of that boy. The boy was placed in an orphan asylum. The mother stole him from the asylum, as its records show. The mother was taken against her will and without legal process placed in the Providence lunatic asylum in this city. The attending physician when he found her there told her she could leave at her pleasure, as they had no right to detain her. She left. She employed a lawyer to begin legal proceedings for abduction against those who illegally placed her in the lunatic asylum. A relative, anxious to avoid public scandal, induced her to compromise. Grover Cleveland paid $500 to settle the case.

These are the salient points in the Halpin case. The Telegraph did not present these points July 21 as simple assertions. It cited authorities as it went along. The defenders present bare denials and offer no evidence in support of them. Indeed, in all the apologies combined there is not a denial of any one of these points by itself, except there is a declaration in two of them that Maria Halpin was a vile woman when Cleveland "became intimate" with her. These points are not taken up and treated separately. The fact is that each of them by itself is acknowledged. But they are "explained," and it is denied that as a whole they reflect seriously upon Grover Cleveland, or that they go to show that his moral character is such as to be any bar to his elevation to the proudest office on earth.

AN INDIGNANT DENIAL.

Chicago Tribune.

Benjamin Folsom publishes a card in the Buffalo Express defending the memory of his dead cousin against the dastardly efforts of Cleveland's friends to foist the latter's progeny upon him. It will be recollected that one of the versions of the widow Halpin matter is, that the illegitimate youngster is the son of a married friend of Cleveland, and that Cleveland fathered the child to save the reputation of that "friend." That friend was Oscar Folsom. And this is what Benjamin Folsom says about it.

"In as few words as possible I desire to brand as wicked, false and cowardly the vile insinuations and charges which have been published concerning the late Oscar Folsom in connection with what is known as the 'Cleveland scandal.' It does not require much courage on the part of scandalmongers, to slander and blacken the memory of a man whose lips are closed in death, but it is pitiful that the necessities of a political campaign should seem to require not only the desecration of the grave, but a brutal outrage upon the feelings of the living. I denounce as infamous the attempt to father upon my cousin, Oscar Folsom, the illegitimate offspring of Maria Halpin."

Cleveland will have to stand responsible for his own works. He had better fulfill the promise he made to the widow and legitimize his son.

A SHARP EDITORIAL.

The Northwestern Chronicle, Bishop Ireland's paper, has the following scathing comment on a recent article in the New York Nation in defense of Cleveland:

Cleveland has been accused of flagrant violations of chastity. Chastity, we were assured by the Nation, is not the greatest of virtues. It is well enough for a man to be chaste, the Nation tells us, but although Cleveland can lay no claim to that relatively inferior virtue, his "virtues are those which bind human society together, and in which states are founded and maintained!" What a political philosophy is this? We supposed that if there were any institutions on which the State security rested more than on any other it was on the family and on marriage. Take away marriage and the family and you have social chaos. It is the family and marriage which distinguish man from the brute; and the basis of the family is chastity. Destroy chastity in a nation and you destroy the family and with it the state. To be satisfied of this we need only consult the consequences of every individual man. What would he give for his home or hearth if he could not trust in the virtue of his wife or daughters? Chastity is the corner-stone of states and of social order. Cleveland's vice of unchastity is the one above all others by which governments are overthrown, states [illegible] and homes [illegible].

[illegible] the Nation, would have prevented Washington from taking any important part in the foundation of the American republic. What a [illegible] and brutal slander on the Father of his Country! The Nation should have headed its article "An Apology for Unchastity." And, what are we to think of the assertion that there have been very few of the benefactors of the human race who have been chaste? If this were true it should not be told, but it is a most damnable lie. There are thousands of benefactors of the human race greater than Cleveland, and living to-day whose lives are as pure as the driven snow.

The writer in the Nation has a perfect right to make a public confession of his own corruption; but who has authorized him to enter a plea of guilty to the charge of lechery for the whole American people, or to declare what relative value the people of the United States set upon purity and truth?

Defection of the Irish.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The defection of Irishmen from the democratic party has recently been very great in this city, and there is some talk of a distinctive Irish demonstration in the interest of Blaine and Logan. A leading Irishman said yesterday that there are not less than 5000 Irish-Americans in San Francisco alone who will vote for Blaine and Logan.

"I have arrived at that figure not entirely by guesswork," he said. "I know the strength of the nationalists and those who affiliate with the land league. Of the former there are about 1000 enrolled in this city, and a majority of them will vote the republican ticket. The land league, before it became demoralized, could muster 8000 voters at any time, and of that number two thirds will vote for Blaine. Then there is a large element which affiliates with and is guided by the nationalists and land leaguers, and that will bring the number up to 5000, I believe."

"You said that the land league is demoralized. Is that a fact?"

"Well, perhaps the word is too strong. What I mean to say is that it has received a sharp setback through the attempt of democratic politicians to turn it into a political machine."

"Have the efforts of the democrats, in misrepresenting the Sweeney case, had any influence upon Irish-American voters?"

"None whatever. His case is well understood. I know from his own mouth that the British government offered McSweeney money to leave the country and that he refused. I know further that he was a poor law guardian, which is an elective office in Ireland, where he had purchased property and lived for six years, long enough to make him a subject of Great Britain again. No, no, I assure you, the Irish people know heroism when they see it displayed, and they know men like McSweeney, who are American citizens only when they have got themselves into trouble, are not martyrs and heroes, but shirkers. Ireland will never gain her liberty through such as he."

Sad Ending to a Wedding.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 24.—M. Wainwright was fatally shot in Kneb's building on Seventh street at 3 o'clock this afternoon by a young man named Clark, employed in the cabinet shop at the railroad works. About one year ago Clark married a Miss Berry of Elmira. His wife's sister came to live with the couple and was last night married to the murdered man. Both men drank freely at the wedding banquet but were apparently on good terms. At 8 this morning a police officer heard a pistol shot in the building where all the parties lived, and Clark informed him that the shot was accidental and the officer left. This afternoon another shot was heard from the same place, and when the officer rushed upstairs he found Wainwright on the floor on the very spot where he had been married last night. The brain matter oozed from a bullet wound in the forehead, and in fifteen minutes the wounded man died. Clark appeared much excited, and about half-drunk when he surrendered his pistol to the officer. The theory of the killing is that Clark thought more of the new bride than of his own wife, and under the influence of wine murdered the man who had married her. The deceased was a blacksmith. Both men always bore the reputation of being quiet persons. Mrs. Wainwright claims that Clark also tried to kill her.

Major Jones' Mistake.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Major W. A. Jones, United States engineer, who has just been ordered to Portland, is at work on plans for the park water works in this city, a work which he was doing gratis. Mayor Bartlett and General McDowell, park commissioners, sent dispatches to the secretary of war a few days ago, asking him that Major Jones be allowed to remain here two months and complete the work in hand, which elicited a reply that "Major Jones was transferred in the interests of the United States, and that a law of the department prohibited any of its officers from engaging in outside private enterprises." Secretary Lincoln's decision will cost this city $100 per month for a good many months to come, as Major Jones was permitted by General Pope, the division commander, to begin the park work, and as it has long been the practice of the government engineers here to lend aid in local public enterprises, the order was a great surprise. It creates a good deal of criticism and no little disgust.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. E. S. Eddy, of Portland, leaves for Carson to-day and will arrive here to-morrow.

Kenneth McLeay will start for home overland to-morrow. He will spend five or six days in the passage.

Accurate Shooting.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—The most remarkable score probably ever heard of was made this afternoon by Lieutenant Klien at Shell Mound in the contest to-day for places in the team of ten California marksmen who are to contest in the inter-state match with Nevada. At the 500-yard range Lieutenant Klein scored 50 out of a possible 50, making ten consecutive bulls-eyes. His two sighting shots at the same range were also bulls-eyes, thus making twelve consecutive bulls-eyes at 500 yards.

Declared for Forfeiture.

SEATTLE, W. T., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The King county republican convention met yesterday. Hon. J. R. Lewis was elected chairman and W. D. Wood and D. B. McKinley secretaries. The platform committee reported an interesting document. It endorsed the forfeiture plank in the platform of the national republican party, and in fact every line was pregnant with unequivocal forfeiture of the lapsed land grants. The following were elected delegates to the territorial convention, every one of whom are avowed forfeiture men: O. A. Wood, J. R. Lewis, C. H. Hanford, W. G. Latimer, G. W. Tibbols, Geo. Kinnear, L. B. Andrews, P. H. Hallaran, D. Jacobs, T. M. Alvord, M. V. Rinehart and J. M. Colman. Then were nominated for legislative councilmen representative, and a joint representation with Kitsap county respectively, Judge O. Jacobs, John H. Kinnear and Judge J. R. Lewis. All the county officers were nominated excepting Wm. H. Hughes as assessor, and Mrs. Florence Chick as school superintendent. The remaining county and precinct officers were nominated, the convention taking the utmost care that all the officers should be solid for forfeiture.

SOUTHERN ELECTIONS.

Will the republicans carry any southern state? They are going to make a contest in West Virginia, where elections hitherto have been conducted with comparative fairness, and may carry it, though the probability is otherwise. Some express a belief that certain states further south will cast republican electoral votes; and Louisiana is commonly named as the one of which there is most hope. But this notion may as well be dismissed. There is no possible chance for the republicans to get the electoral vote of Louisiana or of any other of the undoubted republican states of the south. The democratic managers in those states are resolved, as heretofore, not to permit it, though it be necessary to stuff every ballot box or kill ten thousand political opponents. In one-half the southern states there is neither a free ballot nor an honest count, and the Bourbon politicians do not mean there shall be. In those states it is no crime to intimidate, to stuff ballot boxes, to falsify returns, or even to commit murder, to secure the predetermined political end. Here is what E. B. Wheeler, of Hazelhurst, Miss., said: "I killed Prent. Matthews. I told him not to vote, and he voted, and I killed him. Yet it was not I who killed him, it was the party. If I had not been a democrat I would not have killed him. It was not I, but the democratic party; and now if the party is a mind to throw off on me, d—n such a party." It did not throw him off. Within a month after he had murdered Matthews, for which work he was selected by a caucus of his party, he was elected city marshal of Hazelhurst. Of course "the party" protected its agent. In those states republicans, if they assert their principles and try to carry them into practice through organization in elections, obtain for their rights no more toleration than anti-slavery men did before the war, when mobs and halters were the answers to every person who ventured to intimate that slavery was a wrong.

The present iniquity of the south—the iniquity of its elections—can no more be kept out of sight than the iniquity of slavery could be. It will not down. It cannot be suppressed. That iniquity is the chief reliance for a political force to decide national elections. It is a count, not a choice. No contest is permitted. Not a doubt is entertained, because it is resolved beforehand to "fix" the result. Fraud and violence disdain even the outward appearances of formality. There is a count, in advance, of 153 electoral votes, and the managers mean to deliver them. And what are you going to do about it?

This overwhelming iniquity challenges a justice that cannot sleep forever. For justice, as she is personified in all appeals to her, carries a sword as well as a scale. Hitherto the north has been as "solid" for justice as the south has been for injustice. It will be so still.

What the New York Sun, as reported in our special dispatches to-day, says about the infamy of elections in Louisiana, is only one of the signs that public opinion in the northern states is neither blind nor indifferent to an unspeakable outrage upon the whole people. The facts are notorious, undisputed, infamous. Last year, in Louisiana, it was a count, not an election. The democratic party was divided and the ballots went into the boxes against the state ring; but the manipulators of the ballot-boxes "fixed" it by reversing more than fifty thousand votes, and so retained their hold upon the state government. All honesty has not departed from democratic journalism, even in Louisiana, and some of the most powerful democratic papers of the state, the New Orleans Picayune among them, denounced the systematized crime by which the will of the people was overturned, and held the authors of it up to the execration of honest men.

This is the state of facts in Louisiana which moves the New York Sun to print the intelligence that though "an enthusiastic Cleveland man is hard to find there, yet arrangements are perfected by which the state will be declared for Cleveland by 60,000 majority, even if not a ballot-box is opened or a vote cast." The Sun wants to know what the truly good independents are going to do about this state of facts. They will do nothing, of course. They are in the democratic party now, count upon this as part of their programme of success and will not even protest against it. And Harper's Weekly which has again assumed its old character of doughface journalism, if it notices the subject at all, will apologize for the iniquity, as it apologized for the aggressions and iniquities of the old slave power.

What is true of Louisiana is just as true of Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and South Carolina. Upon a fair vote and honest count the democratic party would have less chance of success in either of these than it has at this moment in Iowa, Kansas or Maine. Yet the weight of this great southern electoral vote, consolidated notoriously through fraud and outrage, is the chief dependence in the movement for "reform." It is the great pillar in the temple of "honest government" which the Pharasees have entered, to sit down in confraternity with the bulldozer and ballot-box stuffer, singing paeans to the anticipated victory for "government based on morality" and on "rebuke of corruption."

COPPERHEAD HENDRICKS.

It is not necessary to go beyond the official record made by Thomas A. Hendricks during the war to prove that he was as active an enemy of the national cause as any northern supporter of the rebellion could be without going south and taking up arms. Nor, indeed, could Hendricks have done the national cause as much harm as he did, had he openly cast his fortunes with the armed enemies of the union. He was senator of the United States for six years, beginning with March, 1863. The record showed that he opposed and voted against all the important acts to raise men and money to carry on military operations. It was necessary to raise money by taxation, which he opposed; it was necessary to raise men by enrollment and conscription, which he antagonized in every possible way. He was unrelenting in his hostility to the anti-slavery policy of Mr. Lincoln's administration; spoke and voted against the employment of colored troops, and against the resolution to submit to the states the amendment to abolish slavery; took his stand upon the platform of 1864, that declared the war a failure; was among the most sorrowful when the events of the next year proved the declaration false, and, in short, throughout his term as senator did everything in his power, first against all measures to overthrow the southern confederacy, and second to defeat the necessary settlements that followed the war.

It now suits the democratic organs to attempt a denial of this record, but there it stands. It is written in the official journal of congress, which shows a multitude of speeches and votes by Hendricks against war measures, but not one speech or one vote in favor of any measure of the kind. Hendricks was the typical copperhead of the war. It was his boast that he did not advise any man to enlist; "your sons, he said, "may go out to the battle field; you may hear prayers in your churches; but our country is not to be restored as it was until abolitionism is buried never to be resurrected." The treasonable sentiment of Indiana was a continual source of trouble to the government throughout the war. Hendricks was the leader and representative of it. When it carried the legislature in 1862 it naturally chose him for senator, and under his advice that legislature refused to appropriate a dollar to meet the exigencies of the war—a refusal that compelled Governor Morton to borrow in New York upon his own pledges several hundred thousand dollars, which the same legislature, elected upon an appeal to the people against Copperhead Hendricks, repaid. [illegible] the United States as if he had sat in the confederate congress, and far more hurtful and dangerous to the union cause. His supporters now are undoubtedly ashamed of his record, else they would not try so persistently to get away from it. Some of them even go to the length of pretending that he was a chosen friend and adviser of President Lincoln!

LABOR SAVED BY MACHINERY.

The time was not long ago when by a large class of our people engaged in the various branches of handicraft machinery was looked upon as the natural enemy of labor, and its introduction denounced and opposed at every point as a ruinous innovation upon the rights and interests of the latter. But time and experience have to a great extent corrected this popular error, even in the minds of those whose former occupations have been destroyed or changed by it, and now labor-saving machinery has come to be universally regarded in its true relations to society, and as the best friend and benefactor to the human race. The prejudices and scepticism which assailed it at every step and stage of its growth have at length passed away; all of us are now ready to acknowledge that it has done more to increase the sum of human happiness, and to build up those great industries which lie at the basis of modern civilization, than all other agencies put together.

Machinery has aided to develop the rich natural resources of this new country and added largely to the measure of its realized wealth. It has doubled and quadrupled the producing capacity of our industries without enhancing their labor or cost. It has practically annihilated time and space, those drawbacks of commercial intercourse; brought nations close together for an interchange of products which are geographically as wide apart as the antipodes; condensed the business and traffic which formerly occupied months and years, into days and weeks; harmonized interests and politics which were once diverse and hostile; substituted peace for war by making friends and neighbors of those who were strangers or enemies, and brought into the relationship of one family the whole human race.

The discovery of the steam engine was, of course, the great test and the most far-reaching in its results of any of those inventions which have substituted machine work for manual labor. The enormous power thus generated, and applied to the simple process of turning a crank has set in motion hundreds and thousands of other machines, whose office is to do more cheaply and expeditiously, as well as more skillfully in many cases, the work which human hands were formerly wont to slowly and painfully accomplish. Thus have the Utopian dreams of the enthusiasts of past generations been realized, the best results of scientific investigation and discovery reduced to practice, a new realm of art created and opened up to the workingman as well as the scholar, and commodities which from their high cost and difficult manufacture were once considered articles of luxury or curiosity are now placed within the reach of all.

By cheapening and facilitating the various processes of production the use of machinery has very vastly stimulated the consumption of both the necessities and comforts of life. At the same time, this increased consumption has reacted upon production, enlarging the sphere of all branches of industry, and creating new and higher fields for the employment of skilled labor. In these new fields the workingman has found full compensation for those from which he has been driven by the tireless muscles of steel, and the nimble, perpetually moving fingers of wood, brass or iron.

And what a relief is this to the weary, toiling masses, who have been accustomed to work out the most insignificant results in productive industry at a vast expenditure of time and labor. How often the strongest and most persevering would involuntarily shrink from a task to the performance of which must be brought an almost superhuman degree of patience and endurance. Now all this is changed, and the brains and vigilance of the man only are taxed in the way of supervision, while the machine is busy in doing the hard work which once devolved upon the former. This is as it should be, and further progress is to be made in the same direction for the emancipation of the human race from mere spherical toil and drudgery. At the same time labor is to be educated and elevated, and its rewards scaled up to a point which will bring it in closer relations and sympathy with capital.

Forty leading German citizens of Milwaukee, who have examined the speech against Mr. Blaine recently made by Carl Schurz, publish in the Chicago Tribune of August 18th a reply in four columns, in which they reach the conclusion that the charges are exaggerated, erroneous and false. The statement meets all the points of objection raised by Schurz against Mr. Blaine, refutes them one by one, and calls on German republicans everywhere to stand by the great leader of the party.

Speaking of "defensive" campaigns, the following headlines, taken from some of the foremost Cleveland papers, show how largely their work is defensive, viz:

"Another Defence of Cleveland"—"The Buffalo Scandal Denied"—"Vindication of Cleveland by his Townsmen"—"The Charges of Immorality Answered"—"The Halpin Case Explained"—"Report of the Independent Committee on the Cleveland Charges"—"His Treatment of the Woman Justified"—"She was only a Widow"—"Evidence that he Treated her Honorably"—"Denial that he ever Promised Marriage."

In his letter Mr. Cleveland favors one term only. Doubtless he would be willing to compromise on one term.

A REASON GIVEN.

GRANT'S PASS, OR., Aug. 22.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In the locals of your issue of the 16th inst. I notice the following:

"Minneapolis manufacturers pay $32 a thousand for lumber, make it into doors and sash, and ship them as far west as Spokane Falls," said a prominent business man to an OREGONIAN reporter. "Portland manufacturers, with the raw lumber at $8 to $10, could make sash and doors and sell them in Minneapolis at a profit, to say nothing of the trade they could get in Montana. The manufacturers here are folding their arms and letting everybody else reach out for business that properly belongs here."

Being deeply interested in this matter, I desire to explain why the manufacture of sash and doors is not carried on in this part of Oregon.

There is in this immediate vicinity a large amount of sugar pine timber, generally conceded to be the very best material for manufacturing sash and doors. It is exactly the same as that used by all the California factories. The tariff rate of the railroad company makes it impossible for the business to be carried on successfully.

More than this, if the present rate even should allow the transportation, there is still no protection for capital that would invest in the enterprise, for the railroad company could raise the rate of freight any time they pleased to such an extent as to take the entire profit out of the hands of the manufacturer and reduce the interest on the investment to any point that might please the manager of the company. For this reason capital will not seek the avenues of manufacturing, and on this account many good and profitable industries of our state are dormant, and California and the eastern states are taking thousands of dollars of our money that by all means should be kept within our own state lines.

I see no remedy for this state of things but through our legislature. A reasonable and just rate of transportation, protected by law, would give capital and labor the much needed protection that would develop the manufacturing industries of our state, and benefit not only the people but the transportation companies themselves.

I hold that the future welfare of our state depends more upon its development of manufacturing industries than upon any other, and any course that can be pursued by the legislature to assist our manufacturing is its most essential work. Your very able article on "Regulation of the railroad traffic" in your issue of the 19th inst. I hope will be carefully read by every member of the legislature. If the advice contained therein were followed by the managers of our transportation companies, I believe as you do that there would be "money in it" to an extent of which the companies little dream.

A meeting of quite a number of persons interested in sheep husbandry was held in Colfax last Saturday for the purpose of organizing a wool growers' association. After a general exchange of opinion as to what would be gained by concerted action, not only in the matter of marketing products but also of the principles of breeding and caring for sheep, a permanent organization was effected under the name of the Whitman County Wool Growers' Association. R. Copley was elected president and H. H. Fowle secretary. A committee was appointed to form a constitution and by-laws and report at the next meeting, to be held in Colfax on the second Saturday in September.

Sheep are troubled by bear and panthers in Curry county.

Pioneer reunion at Jacksonville on September 16th. The programme has not yet been prepared by the committee.

The grain yield turns out to be unprecedented in our history. Abundant crops are reported from every portion of the county.

Halibut is being caught at the reef below Port Orford. Some measuring five feet in length and weighing one hundred pounds.

Jesse Parker killed three of the grizzly bears that have been preying upon the cattle out in the Sprague river country. He went after them single handed, with a trusty pony and a repeating rifle.

Louis Henry Zeiler was born in Botetourt county, Virginia, May 20, 1829, and died a hero's death by something [illegible] at Roseburg, Oregon, at midnight, August 18, 1884. When he was three years old his parents removed to South Bend, Indiana, where he learned the trade of blacksmithing. In 1850 he came to Portland, Oregon, from thence to Jackson county, where in May, 1855, he was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Plymale. For nearly eighteen years they lived there, then moved to Roseburg, where they remained a year and a half, going thence to Coos bay, where they resided eight years, returning to Roseburg in 1881. Since his manhood he has been alternately engaged at blacksmithing, mining and hotel keeping. He leaves a wife and six children.

Very little wheat is being received at Blue Mountain station. Farmers are determined to hold on for better prices.

Work on the Snake river bridge has been resumed. The Short Line will probably reach Huntington by the first of next month.

A force of men are at work tearing out the walls in the old mint at The Dalles so as to give ample room for the storage of grain.

The Leader says that Weston is soon to have a first-class brick hotel. The contemplated building, a two-story brick, will probably cost $7000 or $8000.

William Munjar, an old veteran of 1812, died a few days ago at his home in Hardman, in Umatilla county. Deceased came to Oregon about eight years ago.

The prisoners who recently escaped from the county jail at La Grande have not been heard from, and it may be concluded that Union county is effectually rid of three bad characters.

From the Heppner Times it is learned that the citizens of the eastern portion of Wasco county are greatly excited over the grass fires that have been raging for the past few days in that locality. Near Alkali and Blalocks a great amount of grass has been destroyed, which will work a hardship on some of the stockmen in that locality during the coming winter. These fires are the work of an incendiary, and we are informed by a reliable authority that suspicion points strongly to certain persons.

The Astorian says nearly 2,000 people are at the seashore this season.

The tramp nuisance is on the increase throughout the Willamette valley.

Spring grain about Dixie, Polk county, is said to be much affected with rust.

On Tuesday J. M. Lawrence, of North Independence, let a heavy chisel drop on his foot, severing an important blood vessel.

The fruit crop, especially plums, throughout Linn county will be one of the largest ever known. Almost every orchard contains trees that are breaking down with the heavy load of fruit.

Polk county Itemizer: From farmers in all directions we learn that the grain yield is much better than was anticipated prior to the beginning of harvest, and the quality is also excellent.

The Yamhill Reporter says: From every point comes the satisfying news that crops are making more than the most sanguine expected—30, 35, 40, 45, even 60 bushels to the acre being common.

Many fruit trees in the vicinity of Harrisburg are being damaged to a more or less extent by caterpillars. They are the familiar little caterpillar about an inch in length which operates in a spider-like web, and are so frequently seen in [illegible].

Mrs. Amanda Gilfrey, wife of George L. Gilfrey, died at her home in Crowell Friday afternoon, August 15, 1884, of heart disease. She was attending to her household not a half hour before her death. The remains were buried in the Pleasant Hill cemetery last Saturday.

Sheriff Groves of Polk county was much surprised Monday morning on entering the county jail to bring the two prisoners confined there their breakfast that they had "vamoosed." They effected their escape by sawing off one of the bars of the south window, letting themselves to the ground by means of an improvised rope. Richard Howard was awaiting the December term of court for grand larceny, and William Vanvalor for stealing a pair of pinchers.

J. W. Wright died of consumption at his residence in Junction City, Lane county, Friday, August 15. Deceased was born in Indiana in 18[illegible]. At an early age he was admitted to the bar in that state, where he stood high in his profession. In the year 1877 he came to this coast, and was admitted to the Oregon bar in 1878. Since that time he has practiced law in Junction City. In January, 1882 he was united in marriage with Miss Mattie K. Campbell, a highly accomplished lady of Junction, daughter of Prof. J. C. Campbell. The remains of Mr. Wright were buried by the Masonic fraternity in their cemetery, four miles below Harrisburg.

Washington Territory.

The grand jury of Garfield county have indicted Calvin Pierce for murder in the second degree.

The government saw-mill which burned about four months ago at Fort Spokane has been rebuilt, and is now running.

Neah bay voting precinct has been abolished by the Clallam county authorities. A Port Townsend exchange says: "It is hoped the precinct will be restored, as there are about twenty votes in it and their nearest polling place is at Pysht, twenty miles away.

A barn belonging to John Lyson of Carrollton was burned on the night of the 19th inst. The barn contained a winter's supply of hay, which was a total loss. The fire caught from a log heap which Mr. Lyson had been burning during the day.

The Klickitat democratic county convention has been held and four delegates elected to the territorial convention at Walla Walla. The county delegates were instructed to stand by Thomas Burke as long as he has a ghost of a show for nomination as delegate to congress.

Walla Walla Union: The city council should certainly make some provision for the suppression of opium smoking. It seems strange that so many safeguards are placed around the liquor traffic, while a curse ten thousand fold worse is left free to ruin young men and women.

An Indian prisoner named [illegible], confined in the guard-house at Camp Spokane for horse stealing, made his escape recently. At the time of his escape there were two other Indians incarcerated in the guard-house for the same offense. He had on at the time a very heavy pair of shackles, and couldn't have gone very far without assistance.

At the recent term of the district court held at Pomeroy J. B. L[illegible], [illegible] and Calvin Pierce were all acquitted. The former was indicted for embezzlement, but when his case came to trial he pulled a receipt in full which he had received for the money, and was therefore discharged from custody. He had been in jail for nearly six months awaiting his trial.

There are on the east beach of Vashon island, just south of the entrance to Quartermaster harbor, some curious formations which resemble various portions of the human frame and of animals. Some of the formations, which are something like sandstone in composition, are of the semblance of the feet, arms and hands of a now extinct race of people. Some others resemble small animals petrified.

Says the Palouse Gazette: A singular story of merciless boy-beating comes from Pullman, wherein one George Clark is the offender and a lad named Farnsworth the victim. It appears that Clark had been worsted in an altercation with the elder Farnsworth, with whom he was unable to cope, and took his revenge out on the boy. Our informant stated that Clark paid a boy one dollar to entice the victim into his (Clark's) melon patch, where he was lying in wait. This accomplished, he sprang up and attacked the boy, beating him until he left the premises in a dazed condition, in which state he was afterwards found, wandering aimlessly around on his horse. Clark has heretofore borne a good reputation and his friends frankly say they cannot account for his conduct.

Tacoma paper: Rev. J. H. Wilbur, of the M. E. church, who for twenty-two years following the year 1860, was Indian agent among the Yakima Indians, was in Tacoma, accompanied by his wife, on their way to Seattle to attend the conference now in session there. He reports that the Indians who were under his charge east of the mountains, by patient and persevering instruction, have been taught to be self-supporting; that about 400 Indians, owning several hundred dollars each, are [illegible] members of the tribe, who can and do work their farms and till [illegible]. He says it is a fact that some of them can make a set of harness or a saddle as neatly and perfectly as any of the workers in that line of manufacture. The degree of civilization to which they have been brought has been accomplished by the residence of the instructors with them, who have, by their actions, shown the Indians that they were sincerely interested in them. Father Wilbur, as he is called, is down on the government's supporting the Indians [illegible]. Father Wilbur is a wealthy [illegible] four score of years, he is as lively as a young man of 25. His work heretofore [illegible] has been appreciated by [illegible] at Washington, and [illegible] as "the best Indian agent engaged in the work."

Montana.

It is thought that Missoula's assessment roll this year will foot up nearly $1,000,000.

There has been a heavy frost in the vicinity of Boulder and Radersburg several mornings recently.

The mines and mills of Butte and vicinity consume, it is estimated, about 60,000 feet of lumber per day.

The promise is that Montana will this year produce the best grain and vegetable crop grown for years.

Work has commenced on the new furnace of the Hecla company, and there are [illegible] a livelier aspect at Glendale.

A couple of weeks ago a band of thieving Piegans paid a flying visit to the Crow reservation, stole seventy ponies, and left for home. The Crows followed, but failed to overtake the thieves, who made good their escape. One Piegan was captured and promptly dispatched, the Crows returning with the scalp.

Last Tuesday, while Henry N. [illegible] Malcolm [illegible] with a rifle.

Reports from all over the country are most flattering for the stockmen. The calf crop will be as large as it has been for [illegible] last year. The grass everywhere is excellent, and during the coming winter the stock on all the ranges will have ample feed. Should the winter be as severe as predicted by would-be weather prophets, the abundance of feed will carry the stock through. It is stated that never within the history of stock raising in this country has the outlook been so hopeful, and we hope all that is expected by owners of [illegible]

CITY.

[illegible] DEAD.—Early yesterday morning express wagons loaded with Chinamen, [illegible] commenced to pour across the Stark [illegible] on their way to Lone Fir cemetery to observe [illegible] ceremony commonly called feed[illegible]. A reporter of this paper who visited [illegible] during the afternoon found a large [illegible] Chinamen engaged in this pious duty [illegible] and chickens were placed around on [illegible] the graves of the Chinese and at [illegible] every grave candles were burning [illegible] best information to be obtained is [illegible] it seems that the food is in [illegible] of propitiatory offering to the [illegible] The offerings varied according to the [illegible] of the occupants of the graves. At [illegible] his friend after digging holes in [illegible] with his knife stuck up two candles [illegible] out several sets of chopsticks and [illegible] cups which he filled with wine then [illegible] bowls of rice and a package of cigar [illegible] small vessel of opium. Then he made [illegible] and genuflections as if inviting his [illegible] the other party to eat to. A number [illegible] burning in the vicinity and on those [illegible] pieces of paper with squares of imitation [illegible] pasted on them representing gold coin [illegible] with silver foil represented silver coin [illegible] squares punched full of holes [illegible] the brass cash which coin has [illegible] the center. Some burned small [illegible] of paper and thus furnished a [illegible] deceased friends at small cost. After [illegible] and chickens had been displayed long [illegible] the devil time to satisfy himself they [illegible] replaced in the wagons and brought [illegible]

[illegible] FAILURE.—From time to time the black [illegible] the beach along the coast of Oregon [illegible], but no one has as yet succeeded in [illegible] profitably. Many machines have been [illegible] extracting the gold [illegible] the heavy [illegible] which [illegible] but all have prove[illegible] short time since a man came over from [illegible] and tried to sell a beach claim to [illegible] Wo [illegible] intelligent merchant [illegible] English went over to look at it [illegible] Saturday as sunburned as a coolie [illegible] railroad. He says that the claim is [illegible] beach about twenty five miles above [illegible] about 400 feet wide and half a mile [illegible] some Chinamen [illegible] working on it [illegible] out a few [illegible] of gold per day but as usual the amount of [illegible] is lost. Owing to the scarcity of [illegible] Chinese labor the contractors [illegible] that would pay their [illegible] he would have [illegible]

DELAYED TRAINS IN.—Passengers on three delayed Northern Pacific trains arrived at 11 40 yesterday morning. The train which left St Paul Wednesday overtook the last delayed train at Livingston. They were consolidated at Helena and from there the three trains came to Portland in two sections. The accumulated mail caused the postoffice employes a very hard Sunday's work but they distributed the letter mail with great dispatch. The cause of the break was excessive rain and extraordinarily rapid rise in the Little Missouri. All the washouts were small but they extended over seven miles of track.

UNDERGOING REPAIRS.—The large government tug boat used for towing in the work of building the Cascade locks has been hauled out on the east bank of the Willamette opposite the foot of B street. Her hull will be sheathed with metal to protect her [illegible] the ice and she will be further strengthened [illegible] to have power enough to make her the [illegible] stern wheel boat on the river. As her work [illegible] her to the foot of the main rapids it is neces[illegible] that she have immense power. The work of repairs will be finished with the least possible delay.

SERVANT GIRLS.

Why Should Chinese be Employed as Domestics in Preference to Willing Women?

WANTED—A YOUNG GIRL BETWEEN 15 AND 19 years of age to do housework and to act as companion for a lady. The right person can find a good and permanent home. Apply to

The above advertisement appeared in Wednesday's OREGONIAN and was ordered published till forbid, the advertiser thinking he would probably not secure a suitable person for at least a week. He remembered that it was next to impossible to secure good servant girls a year ago but did not know the condition of things now. Before Wednesday noon there were thirty four applicants and though the advertisement was immediately ordered out and appeared only the one time applications continued until Friday, probably fifty in all. Nearly every one of the women who applied were neat and clean in appearance and all seemed willing to work. The advertiser has no doubt that three fourths of them were average good servants. Some cried over the disappointment [illegible] securing the place and one girl said that she had worn blisters on her feet in search of a situation.

"Why is it?" asked the gentleman who related the above to a reporter of this paper, "that housewives will pay Chinese servants $16 and $20 and as much as $[illegible] a month when good girls would be only too glad to work for $12 or $15?"

"Perhaps most housewives regard Chinese as the most efficient servants," suggested the reporter.

"In a good many cases that is true," was the answer, "but that is because the Chinese require the mistress of the house not to interfere with their work. An experienced Chinese domestic is told just once how things are wanted and he follows instructions. He will not allow the mistress to come into the kitchen so he gets along tolerably well if he isn't an opium smoker and doesn't break too many dishes even if his work is not always up to perfect mark. Do housewives treat girls so well? In most cases new servants are bossed from morning till night. Everything whether good, or bad or indifferent is criticised and often she is scolded in the presence of the family for some little thing that would be excused in a Chinaman and for which a housewife would not dare scold a Chinaman. If girls had as much counsel [illegible] Chinese [illegible] we would have no worthy girls out of employment. I wish the ladies of Portland would give the girls a chance."

CHRISTIAN SOLDIERSHIP.

A SERMON PREACHED AT THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH SUNDAY MORNING BY THE REV. R. T. HALL, OF MT. VERNON, OHIO

John 14: 15. If ye love me keep my commandments

The new testament makes frequent and impressive use of military imagery. Paul who was after Christ the founder of the Christian church seems to have considered the life of [illegible] Jesus [illegible] characteristically military. [illegible] endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ [illegible] the whole armor of God [illegible] to war a good warfare [illegible] entangleth himself with the affairs of this life [illegible] utters [illegible] I have fought a good fight.

Now this sort of speech did not [illegible] military experiences [illegible] part of [illegible] far is [illegible] army was [illegible] quarter [illegible] at least in any considerable [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

He gives [illegible] Why call ye me Lord [illegible] and do not the things which I say? He [illegible] keepeth [illegible] he it is that loveth me.

Further [illegible] human [illegible] authority. He was subject to [illegible] he act[illegible] not his own but [illegible] I came [illegible] to do the will of him that sent me [illegible] himself [illegible] He could speak only what was given him to speak.

In the same way the disciples were sent [illegible] persuade men [illegible] could not even set forth all that [illegible] means. To all they simply repeated the master's word, Follow. In fact they were recruiting sergeants and they proclaimed good [illegible] pay for all who would enlist but they could not say where or when the fighting was to be done.

Of course all this implies no real tyranny because the experience of men in all the Christian ages has endorsed the Master's words. My yoke is easy. There is a yoke to be submitted to undoubtedly but the inherent reasonableness of the commandments imposed and the characteristic love and wisdom of the commander logically require us to trust him even if the plan of the campaign is hidden from us in whole or in part. We may safely follow the [illegible] of Christ into any battle field.

It thus clearly appears that the Christian life is one of obedience to rightful authority [illegible] and accordingly may well be illustrated by military figures. The ugly little Jewish lawyer to whom the pen, and not the sword was a familiar weapon could not help writing like an old soldier when he spoke of the life of a Christian disciple [illegible] of the two essential constituents of a soldierly character courage in many cases and discipline always belong of necessity to the Christian character.

You will see at once then that the word commandments is the key to this text and in fact to the gospel itself. It is the evidence of faith and the ground of hope.

If ye love me prove it in the only acceptable way by keeping my commandments. No intellectual convictions no emotional ecstasies no participation in noble ritual service can be a substitute for that hearty obedience to the articles of Christian warfare which all Christians promise in their enlistment oath.

Doubtless some of the subordinate officers have falsified their instructions from headquarters and others have exceeded their instructions. I am very far from demanding a soldierly unqualified obedience to all the prescriptions of every or any preacher or church or sect. Religious tyranny unauthorized or even forbidden by the master has nevertheless been exercised in his name in every age. But whatever the Lord has clearly enjoined upon us is as binding upon us forever more as a soldier's military oath.

There are at least three obvious advantages to be gained by this obedience. First comes a knowledge of truth otherwise unattainable. [illegible] of war can be successfully studied only at the [illegible] The use and meaning of drill and organization can best be understood amidst the wild tumult and fierce excitement of charging columns. So religious truth is best apprehended when a man [illegible] soldier to follow the captain of his salvation by a life of active obedience. Never did our Lord utter a truer word than when he said If any will do the will of my Father he shall know of the doctrine. [illegible] F. W. Robertson's phrase obedience is the organ of spiritual knowledge. With the heart and not with the head believeth unto righteousness. [illegible] general statements like this need some explanation [illegible] and there are many apparent [illegible] [illegible] in a Christian community [illegible] own conscience will [illegible] Error [illegible] conscience together begin to [illegible]

The second advantage of obedience consists in a degree of peace and prosperity in this present life which cannot otherwise be realized. Discipline [illegible] transforms even weak and individually cowardly men into good soldiers. We need in all our [illegible] of life to obtain [illegible] spiritual support. We need [illegible] touch of a comrade's elbow. In the [illegible] Every specific [illegible] [illegible] which directly [illegible] the great trouble with many [illegible] that they do not strive against [illegible] they do not strive lawfully [illegible] fixed [illegible] instead of an army.

In the third place obedience [illegible] according to the scriptures [illegible] ment says [illegible] if ye be willing and obedient ye shall eat the good of the land. The new testament says [illegible]

And now [illegible] the Christian life as a military service [illegible] [illegible] illegitimate authority in religious [illegible] Yet [illegible] the army [illegible] The Grand Army badges are worn [illegible] sense of degradation [illegible] obedience to authority. American [illegible] in perfect independence submit [illegible] their wills to the control of others because [illegible] the means, and also because military discipline is in itself a good thing.

Why then should men object [illegible] don the uniform of the Lord's [illegible]? What reasonable ground [illegible]

The Truth About La Camas

Is that it is the only place in the Northwest unaffected by the present dull times;

Its magnificent water power and its fine location backed by its large capital must make it always as it is now the liveliest town in the Northwest;

Its people are principally new men from the East who have brought large capital and abundant enterprise with them

It is the best place in all this country for new comers to make a start in business or to get work,

It is not a real estate speculation, and has no real estate boomers

It costs only $1 (for the round trip) and a few hours' time to go and see it.

NEW METHODIST MINISTERS

Grace Methodist Episcopal church the newly organized offshoot of the Taylor street church have invited the Rev F. W. Taylor street Methodist Episcopal church has invited the Rev Mr Chandler of Buffalo, New York to succeed the Rev George W. There is scarcely a doubt that Bishop Fowler at the conference this week will make the formal transfers

[illegible] MAPLE [illegible]

The Grocer and Canner (San Francisco) seems to have been imposed upon. It says:

A gentleman now living in Oregon, but who formerly lived in Vermont which is a large maple sugar producing state recently tapped some of the maple trees on his place in Oregon and obtained a flow of sap which equaled that of any section of the east. Upon boiling it down he was agreeably surprised to see it grain into perfect sugar closely resembling in eastern product in appearance and in flavor being exactly alike. This gentleman lives in the [illegible] valley. He says he can tap 500 trees on his place each spring, and he thinks they will yield 1,000 pounds of sugar. If this is true [illegible] is no doubt maple sugar manufacture bids fair to become a [illegible] industry in Oregon. [illegible] This is a canard of the first water. If there is any sugar maple in Oregon the oldest inhabitant never found it.

PEACHES

It has been [illegible] that large shipments of peaches would be received here from [illegible] Oregon, but for some reason [illegible] Judge Deady has received a box of this fruit from Hon [illegible] Beekman of Jacksonville which shows that there are fine [illegible] in that section. Some of those received by Judge Deady measured nine inches in circumference. It is probable that we may yet receive some shipments of fine peaches from southern Oregon, and also some fine grapes. Few people seem to know that the very finest peaches in [illegible] are grown within [illegible] of Portland. Captain Charles B. M. [illegible] lives in Columbia [illegible] sent in some peaches yesterday to friends [illegible] that for size lusciousness and flavor [illegible] the famous Tennessee White Heath [illegible] Of them weigh [illegible] a pound. It was also [illegible] perfection in fruit

IMPORTING [illegible]

Considerable has been said of late about the business of bringing Chinese into this country from British Columbia but [illegible] to what an extent it is carried on [illegible] systematically. So thoroughly organized has this branch of industry become that those engaged in it are actually sending out drummers [illegible] orders. Two [illegible] in this city [illegible] They do not carry any samples [illegible] offer to [illegible] at [illegible] per capita. Just how many orders they have taken is not known but if the United States authorities come across them they will hardly be able to deliver the goods. It is difficult to imagine why Chinamen want to come over here just now. There are so many of them here already that they are chopping and shooting one another and work is scarce and wages low. But after all there is no place like Oregon and it is not to be wondered at that the Chinamen want to get here

A. O. U. W. DEATH ASSESSMENTS

There were three death assessments in the Ancient Order of United Workmen for August and all three had to be paid by members. Inquiries have been made why two of the assessments were not paid out of the surplus as shown by the annual report. It happened in this way. The late Isaac R. Moores grand receiver of the order was also custodian of the funds of other grand lodges and deposited them [illegible] in bank in his own name. His death came just before assessments Nos 1, 2 and 3 were made. The moneys belonging to the order [illegible] not be available until Colonel Moores's estate passed into the hands of the administrator. [illegible] left in trust by Colonel Moores have [illegible] separated and will be paid [illegible] the several orders before the first of September [illegible] the beginning of the fiscal year [illegible] the deaths and notices for the last six will be made [illegible] thus making five assessments payable [illegible]

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO FRANK CHURCHILL

Yesterday afternoon Frank Churchill bookkeeper for Morgan & Stewell, took the delivery team [illegible] and was driving over the north end of Fourth street bridge. The horses shied, cramped the wagon and threw him half way out, his feet [illegible] caught in the seat and his head hanging downwards. While Mr Churchill was in this position the team ran the distance of a block or more his head striking the stones [illegible] several times. His feet became freed and he fell to the ground unconscious. He received a terrible cut over the left ear three inches long and down to the bone another cut on the back of the head and suffered concussion of the brain. There was profuse hemorrhage at the ears nose and mouth. Dr Smith dressed the wounds and the young man was conveyed to the residence of his uncle Mr [illegible] Wicks. He remained unconscious until dark when he showed some signs of restoration to his senses. Dr. Saylor who was summoned to see him thinks the injuries are not necessarily fatal

[illegible] check was drawn to pay a note [illegible] payment was stopped for the [illegible] The note was made by William [illegible] payable to the order of [illegible] for $4000. The note was [illegible] at the bank of Ainsworth & Co. Three days after [illegible] [illegible] the note [illegible] under the impression [illegible] [illegible] to pay on the [illegible] [illegible] Ira F. Powers refuses to pay upon the ground that he [illegible] arrangement with the bank [illegible] Keller was to be a joint maker in the note. That is about how the matter stands as far as the reporter has been able to find out. Just what part Gallick is to play in the matter does not appear

INSIPID ILLUSTRATIONS

Harper's Magazine for September has been received by W. B. Ayer & Co. It contains a paper on "Wheat Fields of the Columbia," from the pen of Ernest Ingersoll. The article may be a good one but the illustrations of which there are about a dozen, give no ideas concerning the wheat fields of the Columbia, or anything else, for that matter. The first is entitled "In the Engine-Room of the Wide West." Johnny Marshall will hardly recognize the place, which looks as if all the machinery had been thrown out and the room taken possession of by a gang of roustabouts. Then there is a view on the Columbia river which might answer for a view of any other river being simply an expanse of water with a shore on one side and a piece of an island in a distance. Next is "The Ferry" a rude flat boat carrying a pair of horses and a vehicle. The Ferry might be on the Tallahassee, Suwanee or Big Leodee river or any other river. Then comes a view of the rocky gorge at The Dalles with an Indian hut in the foreground, which being copied from a photograph is somewhat truthful but has little to do with wheat fields. Then follows a picture of a shanty, some Indians lounging on the porch and another Indian in front with a broad brimmed sombrero on his head talking to a bareheaded Indian on a cayuse. It might be possible to find such a scene near some of the reservations in this region but it has nothing to do with our wheat fields and the days are gone by when this was considered an Indian country. If Harpers cannot do better than this they had best let out the job of illustrating the wheat fields of the Columbia.

DOMESTIC DISPATCHES.

The Albion Bank Safe Defies the Efforts of Expert Cracksmen.

BUTLER TELLS WHEN HE WILL RESIGN.

Lynching and Murder in the Criminal Calendar—Pacing Race at Chicago—Rumor of T. F. Oakes' Retirement.

Losing Confidence in the Bank.

ALBION, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The situation at the bank remains the same. Nothing can be known until the steel chest in the safe is opened. It is thought it will be opened to-day. The bank officials and the persons in charge will say nothing. Those who had confidence in Warner and the bank are losing it. Depositors are offering their claims for 70 and 75 per cent., with no takers. E. J. Hart, of the Orleans Co. bank, says it is prepared to pay all it owes; but there has been no run, and none is expected.

ALBION, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Experts have not yet penetrated the safe. One of Burrows' family says Warner has gone to Europe, and he is confident that nothing will be found in the safe. Cashier Coon still claims that depositors will be paid in full.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The Albion bank affair and the subsequent developments continue to be the sensation of the hour. Like all defalcations, the story grows worse and worse. Warner is already shown to have squandered half a million of Burrows' money in Wall street, and the bank safe door has not yet been drilled open.

Butler's New Jersey Friend.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Quite a flurry of excitement was created in political circles by the withdrawal yesterday of Edward F. McDonald, one of New Jersey's democratic candidates for presidential elector. When the state convention was in session at Trenton a few days ago and the subject of an elector for the seventh district came up there was a scene of such confusion and uproar that the president, General McClellan could not make himself heard to restore order. The row was occasioned by a torrent of words between the friends of McDonald and the ex confederate officer, Colonel McInnerty, who was also a candidate. At last the quarrel was smoothed over, and McDonald was nominated amid great cheering and a sort of love feast. Now McDonald declines, declaring he is for Butler, and proposes to take off his coat for him. The democrats tried to placate him, reasoned and argued with him, but all to no purpose. He said if his name was kept there and elected he would not vote for Cleveland in any event.

Fight Between a Wild Cat and Bull Dog.

CONNELLTON, W. Va., Aug. 23.—A fight between F. L. Montgomery's mountain wild cat and Geo. F. Robinson's bulldog, took place this afternoon at six o'clock. The dog was put in the cage with the cat a few minutes after six o'clock. After a great deal of noise the dog attacked the cat but was driven off. The cat then took the corner and fought the dog off. The dog advanced to the center of the cage and the cat followed up. This round lasted about a second. The dog was driven back. As the dog was to whip the cat in two minutes, and the time being up, referee R. Swan decided that the cat had won, and the dog was taken out. The fight was for $500 a side. Montgomery challenges any dog in the United States to fight the cat for $1,000 at Charleston, W. Va., within sixty days.

Must Leave Indian Territory.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Assistant Secretary of the Interior Joslyn has refused the request of a number of cattle men on the Oklahama lands of Indian Territory to remain till they can remove their stock without loss to themselves. The order to the army to remove all persons on the land in violation of the laws, the assistant secretary says will be carried out. He further says the cattle men went into the territory without permission and must suffer the consequences.

Heavy Thunder Showers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Heavy thunder showers prevailed throughout the northeastern states yesterday, and there is the usual widespread devastation. Houses were struck by lightning, barns burned, cattle killed, streets flooded, railroads washed out, etc. The lightning struck a dozen times in New York, but only one fatality is reported.

Butler's Ultimatum.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—A special from Boston says Butler was recently asked by the democratic committee on what terms he would withdraw. He replied: "You must get Cleveland to withdraw and nominate Thurman and stop calling names."

Blaine at Bar Harbor.

BAR HARBOR, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Gail Hamilton is Blaine's cottage, and will be the guest of Mrs. Blaine for some time. Warner Miller also stays here several days. Blaine remained indoors to-day, excepting he took a short ride in a buggy this morning.

New York Bank Statement.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Following is the banks' statement for the week: Loans decrease, $144,000; specie decrease, $1,046,000; deposits decrease, $223,700; reserve decrease, $89,750. The banks now hold $5,560,550 in excess of legal requirements.

Visitors Prohibited.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Visitors will henceforth be prohibited visiting the Bear and Thetis at the navy yard. It seems that innumerable small mementoes and curiosities of the voyage have been stolen by visitors.

The President's Movements.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—President Arthur left this morning on the steamboat Dispatch. He will remain a day or two at New London, and then go to Newport, returning here in about ten days.

THE TURF.

CHICAGO DRIVING PARK.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—At the driving park a match race between the famous pacers Johnston, owned by Commodore Kittson, and Richball, owned by J. S. Campbell, for a wager of $500 a side occurred this afternoon. The weather was clear and cool and the track fast except a portion of the back stretch which was soft. There was an attendance of 5000. Johnston was the favorite in the pools before the opening of the race, at $25 to $10, and a large amount of money was wagered, the friends of Richball claiming that Johnston could not go three fast heats. The result proved that they were mistaken, as he was never headed, pacing very close to Little Brown Jug's 2:13¾, 2:11¾, 2:12¾, which are the fastest run heats on record. It was a general opinion that if Johnston had been driven out in each heat he could have beaten this. The owner of Richball says his horse was out of condition. Johnston in each heat passed the wire in a jog with Richball only a little inside the distance pole. Time, 2:13, 2:11¾, 2:13¾.

Following this event was an exhibition by the pacing mare Minnie R., hitched to a wagon with the running horse Firebrand, which accompanied the pacer Westmont when he paced over this course in 2:01¾. The exhibition was to beat 2:05. In the first heat the time was 2:07. In the second heat the mare broke and returned without going around. The third heat began with much promise. The quarter post was reached in 30 seconds, at the rate of two minutes; the half in one minute, the same rate; the next quarter was slower, the three-quarter post being reached in 1:31¾. Coming home the mare tired very perceptibly, completing the mile in 2:07¾.

SARATOGA RACES.

SARATOGA, Aug. 23.—Morrissey stakes, two miles—The starters were Emma, General Monroe, Compensation, Vera, Cardinal McCloskey and Lucy B. General Monroe won, Compensation second, Vera third. Compensation made the running from McCloskey, Lucy B and Monroe throughout the first mile. At the start the second time round Lucy B took second place, Monroe next; Compensation held the lead until a half furlong from the finish, when Monroe got up and won a good race by a length; time 3:38.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

RAVISHER LYNCHED.

LINCOLN, Nebraska, Aug. 23.—A Mexican named Luciano Padillo was sent to the state prison of Nebraska from New Mexico, and having served all his term, a month ago was liberated. Last Saturday he ravished a 13-year-old girl fifteen miles west of this city. He was arrested Monday at Beatrice and brought back. The victim was horribly mutilated, and fears were entertained that she would die. The Mexican was taken to her home this afternoon for identification ante mortem by the sheriff and a deputy. Before reaching their destination a mob captured the whole party and took the Mexican before the girl, who positively identified him. The officers were put under guard, the Mexican taken to the identical spot where he committed the crime and hanged to a tree. He was given five minutes to pray, which he did, and made a full confession of the crime. There is great excitement in the neighborhood, and the action of the mob is generally approved.

JEALOUS OF HIS WIFE.

MONTPELIER, Aug. 23.—This morning Clark Sanders, residing in East Montpelier, came to town, went to the gunshop of Blanchard Bro's, purchased a revolver, put three cartridges in it and proceeded to the store of Daniel Carr. The latter was at his desk. Sanders fired three times at him, one bullet taking effect in the neck and the two others in the body. Carr died in a few moments. Sanders put the revolver in his pocket, walked out of the store and up street. The workmen in an adjoining marble shop captured him. The murderer said: "I shot him and hope he is dead, as I intended to kill him. Get your officers and do what you please with me." Sanders said he understood the penalty and expected to be hanged. The cause of the shooting was jealousy by Sanders of his wife. The murdered man was 60 years old. He left a family. Sanders had one son, two months old, which he took away from his wife yesterday and placed with his brother.

MORMON ELDER MOBBED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—The Chronicle's Salt Lake special says: A private dispatch received here to-day says that Mormon Elder J. J. Fuller of Provo was mobbed a day or two ago in Lawrence county, Tennessee, being whipped with switches and warned to leave.

ACCIDENTS.

RAILROAD DISASTER.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 23.—A train on the Southbridge branch of the New York and New England road ran off the track near Quinebaug this morning. One passenger car and the smoker went down the bank twenty feet, but only fell over on their sides, and the fall was gradual. About thirty passengers were aboard, the most of whom were seriously injured, but not fatally.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—A special from Catskill says three young ladies, Bridget Hayes, Annie Hayes and Mary McCabe, residents of New York, boarding at Catskill village, were drowned this morning while bathing in Catskill creek.

THE COLLIERY DISASTER.

[illegible] NOTES.

[illegible] some days [illegible] of Vice President Oakes from the [illegible] railroad and his acceptance of the position of [illegible] of the Union Pacific system, which are not wholly baseless. Oakes himself, it is true, denies the Union Pacific part of the story, but quite naturally says nothing as to his relations with the Northern Pacific company. The fact is, however, that for some months past it has been a pretty generally accepted belief among well-posted railroad men in this vicinity that President Harris contemplated some considerable changes in the management of the road, and that Oakes would be among the earliest departures.

SERIOUS UPRISING.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Advices from Armenia state that a serious uprising has occurred at Dersim. The [illegible] refuse to acknowledge the authority of Turkey and the governor is powerless to bring them to terms.

FOREIGN NEWS.

THE FRANCO-CHINESE WAR.

HOSTILITIES BEGUN.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—A dispatch from Shanghai this morning says: Admiral Courbet has announced his intention of bombarding the arsenal at Foo Chow to-day. The French consul of this city has lowered his flag. Advice from Pekin of yesterday state Governors Yeun Ann and Quan Que have received imperative orders to march their forces into Tonquin.

A Chinese official telegram states that the French are desirous of settlement. This message was sent, however, before it was announced that the French had begun firing on Foo Chow at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The Exchange Telegraph company, on the authority of the Chinese embassy, states that Foo Chow was bombarded by the French this morning.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—A Shanghai dispatch at 6 o'clock this evening says: "It is reported the French have captured the Chinese fleet at Foo Chow. Two French gunboats were sunk." A telegram from Pekin announced that Li Hung has been instructed to make pacific advances.

MEETING OF BUSINESS MEN.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The merchants and underwriters of London held a meeting to-day to consider the bearing of the Franco-Chinese difficulty on neutrals, as Prime Minister Ferry had announced that the bombardment of Kee Lung would not create a state of war, but simply a means of furthering French negotiations with China. An inquiry was raised in the meeting as to whether the admiral's court should admit English or German vessels loaded with arms into Foo Chow. One neutral vessel, it was stated, was now on route to that port with a cargo of dynamite ordered by the viceroy. The meeting resolved to urge Earl Granville, secretary of foreign affairs, to press France to define her intention regarding neutrals.

REINFORCEMENTS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 23.—Three iron-clads start immediately to reinforce the Russian fleet in Chinese waters.

AFRICA.

FRENCH VESSEL WRECKED.

ADEN, Aug. 23.—The French transport Averyon was wrecked off Cape Guardafui. Two hundred and eighty-six men, officers and crew, reached Aden. Three hundred remain at Guardafui.

Northern Pacific Railroad Gossip.

TACOMA, W. T., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—J. M. Buckley, general superintendent, took a special train for Seattle to-day, returning with James McNaught, attorney of the Northern Pacific railway, to meet Mr. Billings, who came over from Victoria on the steamer Starr, chartered for the occasion. J. B. Montgomery, McNaught and Frank T. Dodge are in consultation over railroad matters. It is thought here and not denied by railroad officials that the withdrawal of the train from here to Seattle was done to forestall the hop crop, a part of which would have gone to Seattle and thence to San Francisco by steamer. Now the entire crop, over 1,000,000 pounds, will go over the Northern Pacific either to Portland and thence to San Francisco, or directly east over that road. McNaught stated to your correspondent that delegates from four districts to the county convention in Seattle were compelled to walk to that city. They waited at their station for the train, which failed to appear. They were loud in their denunciation of the railroad company.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday in Olympia incorporating the Northern Pacific and Puget Sound Shore Railroad Co. and the Northern Pacific and Cascade Railroad Company, with the following officers: President, Robert Harris, New York; Vice President, J. M. Buckley, Tacoma; Secretary and Treasurer, Newman Kline, Tacoma; Trustees, Robert Harris, J. M. Buckley, James McNaught, (Seattle,) and Newman Kline, and Samuel Wilkeson, Jr. These roads are now in operation under the Northern Pacific management, and extends to Stuck Junction. The Wilkeson mines and the Carbon Hill mines are owned by the Central Pacific Railroad Company.

DELEGATES NOMINATED.

The county convention here to-day nominated delegates only. No prominent feature in a platform was mentioned, as in Seattle, where a land forfeiture and a woman's rights plank was inserted in the platform.

OPINIONS OF SEATTLEITES.

Seattle people say in regard to the discontinuance of trains between Tacoma and that city, that like the police-men in the "Pirates" they cannot understand it at all.

CALIFORNIA.

Failures for the Week.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Bradshaw's mercantile agency reports sixteen failures in the Pacific coast states and territories for the week ending yesterday, as compared with twenty-eight for the previous week, and thirteen for the corresponding week of 1883.

LOGAN AT CHICAGO.

Five Thousand Republicans Escort Him to Lake Park.

HIS SPEECH TO THE ASSEMBLED MULTITUDE.

Vigorous Denunciation of Democratic Policy in the Past and Present—Comparison with the Republicans' Successful Administration Made.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—The demonstration to-night marking the return of General Logan to his home was one of great magnitude. The republican torch bearing organizations of the city made their first appearance in this campaign, and the aggregate marchers numbered about five thousand. In addition to local organizations, uniformed bodies were present from neighboring cities. General Logan arrived from Pullman on a special train, landing at the Twenty-second street depot at 9 o'clock. The advent of the train was announced by the firing of artillery and a brilliant display of fireworks. A mounted escort was in waiting, and the distinguished party having entered carriages the cavalcade took up the line of march northward on Michigan boulevard to Lake park, where stands had been erected for the speakers of the evening. It was 10:30 o'clock before the last of the marching escort had reached the point of rendezvous, and General Logan was escorted to the speakers' stand. The crowd then in the park had swelled to about 3000. On the stand were General Oglesby, Governor Hamilton, Hon. Joseph Medill, Hon. Charles B. Farwell, William Penn Nixon, Congressmen Davis, Dunham and Adams, and an array of vice presidents to the number of fully 200. General Logan was received with cheering, and spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Fellow Citizens of Illinois:—I am somewhat travel-worn by my circuitous route from the cherished capital of our nation to my native state and my beloved home. It was on this, my native soil, that my boyish pride was encouraged up to the ordinary ambitions of manhood, and if I have, or can serve my constituency fairly and well in the advancement of their interests, my fondest aspirations and hopes will have ripened into a cherished reality. My fellow citizens and friends, my heart beats in harmony with yours in all that pertains to our common humanity and to our common citizenship. I made a vow when I first entered public life to devote all my energies to our whole people and to look for my reward in the consciousness that I had kept the faith.

ISSUES OF THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN.

I shall ever remember this great evidence of respect, with a heart overflowing with gratitude I return to you, my friends and fellow citizens, thanks for this grand demonstration, and as it means much more than merely to be accepted as personal to myself but as to the great principles to which I have been chosen in connection with one of our greatest and most brilliant American statesmen, I therefore deem it proper at this time to examine some of the questions that divide the two great parties of this country. The democratic party controlled this government, with only a few intervals, from 1837 to 1861, and during these twenty four years there was only one important measure enacted in accord with its financial policy now remaining upon the statute books, viz: The independent treasury system. Its financial policies in all other respects have failed and have been abandoned by the country. The doctrine of state sovereignty by which the nation was to be insubordinated to individual states, is now repudiated by the people. Under this doctrine the southern half of the democracy entered into a gigantic rebellion against the government. While a majority of the democrats of the north were loyal to the government, a great many of their organizations sympathized with the south. In 1860 when democrats lost control of the government, they left it financially wrecked. The people were disheartened and the country almost in ruins. Their financial ideas and the tariff policy had brought the nation to its lowest level, without credit and almost without hope for the future. If we may judge them by their record up to that time, there is no ground for the belief that they can at now to manage the affairs of the republic as to meet the present demand of the people.

WHAT DEMOCRATS HAVE DONE.

The speaker then went on to declare that the democratic party had resisted every advance in finance and every measure touching the sources of humanity. It opposed the emancipation of slaves and the homestead laws. It has left the doctrine of voluntary expatriation in such a hope that citizens of foreign birth were seized and forced into the armies of foreign governments until a republican congress gave them the same protection which is afforded to native-born citizens. In the reforms of the civil service instituted by the republican party, an opposition has been shown by a great portion of the democracy.

"We find their candidate for vice-president a gentleman from whom the people ought to have expected better things," said the speaker, "declaring in a speech, made by him July 12, 1884, and since his nomination, that the only remedy for dishonesty in the administration of the government is to turn out the 12,000 republican office holders and supply their places, I suppose by means with honest democrats. Where union soldiers are holding offices I suppose he would replace them with confederate democratic soldiers, and where civilian republicans are holding offices I suppose he would supplant them with civilian democrats, in order that the government may be honestly administered. This declaration from one of the nominees of the democratic party shows what that party mean by civil service reform."

CONTRASTED ADMINISTRATIONS.

The speaker said, dishonest men crept into all associations in life, and declared that while he would not charge the democratic party with being dishonest as a whole he did not think it would profit Governor Hendricks to challenge a comparison of administration as between the republican and democratic party. He then quoted statistics showing losses in the collection of public money under republican and democratic administrations, and adverted to the conduct of Floyd, Thompson, Cobb and others whom he claimed had depleted the treasury, seized and Indian trust funds at the outbreak of the late war. General Logan then proceeded to discuss the financial policy established by the republican party, under which he claimed that evils heretofore experienced under the democratic system had disappeared. The perpetuation of this system should be left in the hands of its friends rather than committed to its enemies in periods of business depression. He declared the democratic party was always ready to recklessly build up some kind of wildcat or quick system for the payment of the public debt and for the temporary relief of the country, although its adoption could only work permanent disaster. Speaking of the tariff, he said the history of the democratic party showed that on the subject of the tariff its coming into power would be full of suggestions of danger.

BENEFITS OF THE REPUBLICAN POLICY.

To the theory of the democratic party that the market price of the products of this country should be governed by the cost of like products in other countries would, if allowed to be consummated, bring the ruinous ruin of this country to an end. He then reviewed what is termed the republican American protective system, and claimed that it had fostered the wealth of the nation until now the aggregate value of all property has reached the sum of forty billion dollars, an increase of thirty billions in the twenty years of republican administration. Whether this was to be attributed to the republican party or not, it was evident the country had never enjoyed such great prosperity or advanced in all things pertaining of the highest civilization as it had since the republican party came into power and adopted this American policy. The free trade theory he described as the democratic English policy. He claimed that the commerce of the country under the management of the government by the republican party had caused our exports to increase to more than twelve billion dollars, all of which had been produced by American labor. The remainder of his speech was largely taken up in making comparisons as to the conditions of the laboring and producing classes of the United States and those of Great Britain under their respective protective and free trade governmental policy.

THE NOMINEE FOR PRESIDENT.

He claimed that the two parties were radically divided on the question of the suppression of polygamy; he claimed that the republican party would use all the legal power of government to destroy "the twin relic of barbarism." He spoke of the failure to secure a free ballot and fair count in certain portions of the south, and closed as follows: "If the people of this country want a man to guide this nation in the direction of peace, prosperity and happiness if they want the man who has been faithful to this country in the times of its trials, the man who stood by it loyally through all of its misfortunes and adversities, the man who has grown in wisdom drawn from a vast experience, the man who is known in diplomacy and statecraft wherever our flag floats or the name of our country is mentioned, a man with strength of intellect, with indomitable will and the courage of his convictions, a man of generous heart as well as brilliant intellect, the man in whose hands every American interest will be absolutely safe and unassailably secure; this man, my fellow citizens, the people will find in the nominee of the republican party for president of the United States, Hon. James G. Blaine."

The crowd was so great about the stand occupied by General Logan that other speakers proceeded to occupy adjoining platforms and addressed portions of the crowd from them. Among the other speakers were General Oglesby, Governor Hamilton and Senator Cullom. The scene in and about the park during the speaking was made brilliant by an unceasing display of pyrotechnics. The speaking continued until 11:30, at which hour the great crowd began to disperse.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

SATURDAY, Aug. 23.

With the exception of light showers Friday bright weather has ruled for the week. The showers were of less importance up the valley and were no hindrance to harvest work that must now be well along. General trade has shown nothing of new interest. There has continued a good call for goods usually bought at this time. Backward grain markets and low prices operate against free trading, but this was foreseen, so that there is no great disappointment. The present situation is deeply deplored, yet must be accepted and the best possible face presented. That wheat values will rule low is an accepted fact for how long is one of the uncertainties of the trade. All this works against the buying movement here, and necessarily shortens orders to the smallest possible range. The Northern Pacific is again open to through traffic, the break near Glendive causing a delay of but two days. Railway stocks are more or less affected of late by results of the small freight business, especially eastern roads. As dividends are controlled by earnings and the true market value of stocks by dividends, it will be seen that the depression is likely to continue until grain is freely moved. Another factor in establishing stock values that will operate against better values is the threatened cut in rates. The roads have long been doing a light business, and they will naturally seek to attract all possible, even by cutting rates. In turn this cheap carriage will affect net earnings.

Under the head of "Despicable Work" the McMinnville Reporter cases an imaginary indignation as follows:

As the season for selling grain approaches, all methods of sharp practice are indulged in to have effect upon the market and keep down the price of grain. One case has already come under our observation: Several days since a "capper" from a Portland wheat-buying firm came out into this county and secured some wheat that was cut before the late rains and which, from standing in the shock had become slightly colored, but not damaged particularly. This was taken to Portland, condemned, and set up as an example of what the crop was to be, and consequently a very low figure was offered for wheat. This we call about the meanest, low down piece of business that has been attempted for some time, and the ghouls who thus attempt to gull our farmers, ought not to be countenanced by the circle of wheat buyers who aim to do a legitimate business. No better quality of wheat has ever been put onto the market than that produced this season, and we are glad to be able to inform our farmer friends that the attempted sharp practice of the sharks was found out and nipped in the bud, and that their wheat will go into market as No. 1 merchantable grain.

If honestly written this item is about as idiotic as can well be imagined. Wheat firms do not employ cappers and now, of all times, would have the less use for such persons. We saw no samples of wheat from McMinnville, and clearly stated conclusions arrived at from samples then at hand. If they were discolored by standing in the shock then there must have been a very large proportion of the wheat cut prior to the rains. That very little was so cut is a fact. The conclusion forced by the examination of samples sent here was that the wheat of Washington county showed the highest color, that of this end of Yamhill less color, and that farther south being quite or almost free from stain. McMinnville is not in this end of Yamhill. If the country press call their most substantial and honored citizens "cappers" for Portland buyers, they may settle that at home. Wheat will be bought on its merits as it must be sold abroad, and no amount of talk will attract buyers on any other basis. That much of the wheat in the northern end of this valley is discolored is true, but it is a far less cause for regret than would be rust or shrivel.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 413 ctls wheat, 815 bbls flour, 108 ctls oats, 77 sks potatoes, 2751 lbs wool, 120 lbs hides, 15 cs eggs, 304 bxs fruit, 14 pkgs butter, 315 bbls lime. Also 2378 ctls wheat, [illegible] bbls flour, 58 lbs hides from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—The Grisedale has arrived from Liverpool with general cargo. The Colonia [illegible] spars and passengers for Hong Kong, a Chinese firm securing the room 'tween decks. In grain freights owners and shippers are 2s 6d apart, and 40s is best possible bid for iron. The Cour. Dunkin, wood, comes for October loading, said to be at 47s 6d. The Renfrewshire is up at Glasgow for this port.

WHEAT—The foreign market is again off for red winters and California, and Oregon suffers correspondingly. Aside from the low prices, it is next to impossible to place a cargo, there being no pronounced demand. At San Francisco the market is slowly being undermined, and there is every prospect of $1 21 or less being shortly reached. In the local market buyers fall down, naming $1 [illegible]@1 12½ as extremes for valley. Even at this low figure it would not be safe to assert that much could be sold. The situation is puzzling in the extreme. Shippers undoubtedly have needs to provide against later on, but it is an open secret that these needs are light, as a number of the vessels en route are known to be open. At least four others are so fixed that they are expected to be thrown up, having been taken in a speculative way. Those chartered have loading days extended into the winter months. Thus, unless there is a more healthy turn to the eastern markets, trading must be slow. Walla Walla ranges 5@7½c below valley, and the centennial figure is offered hard in daily talk.

OATS—The market shows no change but less is doing, with feed still quoted at 28@30c, the better or heavy qualities ranging higher.

POTATOES—A dull market rules at 45@50c per cental. Sweets, 3c.

ONIONS—Quote $1@1 25 per cental.

GREEN FRUIT—Apples in large stock, 60@75c being asked for the best, but less is offered. Fair to good qualities drag at 40@50c. Pears bring 50@75c, the outside being for choice and not generally received. Blackberries have been peddled as low as 3@3½c. Peaches weaker at 60@75c; plums and prunes, 2c; tomatoes, 2c; melons, $2 50 per dozen; cantaloupes, $4 per crate.

BUTTER—Best grades of roll sell at 27½c, while eastern and common bring 25c.

EGGS—Quote 25c with conditions weak and larger arrivals.

CHICKENS—Supplies are over. Old $3@4; young $2 50@3.

GRAIN BAGS—The general asking price is $7 25@7 50, although it is claimed that $7@7 12½ would buy good lots. A combination is being formed at San Francisco that is expected to control 15,000,000 bags for which $7 50 will be asked. Little stock is being taken in the ability of the combination to succeed, as the same has been repeatedly attempted in former years. Values here may be affected should the combination amount to anything, and they may not. In any event a threatened rise of half a cent, or even a cent, will not induce free buying on the part of consumers.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Br. ship Grisedale arrived in to-day 130 days from Liverpool. She brings a general cargo to Balfour, Guthrie & Co.

HEAL THYSELF

DR. LIEBIG'S WONDERFUL German Invigorator.
Men suffering from losses and weakness brought on by early indiscretions or excesses, causing nervous debility, premature decay, lost manhood, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, should immediately procure DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR No. 2.
THE DOCTOR will agree to forfeit $1000 for a case undertaken, not cured. The reason why so many cannot get cured of weakness and the above diseases is owing to a complication called PROSTATORRHEA, with Hyperesthesia, which requires special treatment. DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR No. 2, under our advice and special treatment, is the only positive cure for PROSTATORRHEA.
DR. LIEBIG & CO. for the past nineteen years have made an exclusive specialty of the treatment of diseases of men.
If pimples appear on the face, if you become listless and despondent, look out for the complication with Seminal Weakness or Loss of Vitality known as Prostatorrhea. Hundreds of men have been lost and thousands have lost all their property and pleasure in life from its effects. DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR NO. 2 is the only known remedy for the above complication, and a perfect and permanent cure will be guaranteed in all cases undertaken under our special advice and treatment.

WOLFE'S
Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps.
As a general beverage, necessary corrective of water rendered impure by vegetable decomposition or other causes, as limestone, sulphate of copper, etc., the AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is superior to every other alcoholic preparation. A public trial of over thirty years' duration, in every section of our country of UDOLPHO WOLFE'S SCHNAPPS, its unsolicited endorsement by the medical faculty, and a sale unequaled by any other alcoholic distillation, have secured for it a reputation for salubrity claimed for it. For sale by all druggists and grocers.
